75,000 TRY TO SAVE PAPPAS

Greeks in Monster Petition in Effort to Prevent State Taking His Life

A petition signed by every Greek in the Commonwealth who can be reached will be presented to Governor Cox, praying for a stay of execution of Paul Pappas.

It is exected that 75,000 Greek residents of Massachusetts will sign the petition, which was drafted by Charles Earnest of Cambridge and Rev. J. Axelopoulos, pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church of Boston.

Copies of the petition have been sent to every community in the State where there is a Greek colony, which includes nearly all of the factory towns and cities.

The petition states that certain witnesses testified under duress against the condemned man, who is scheduled to be executed in Charlestown State Prison next week for the murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault.

Pappas Accuses Another in Murder of Woman

Resigned to death in the electric chair, Paul Pappas has accused another man of the murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault, for which the State plans to execute him exactly one week from tonight at midnight.

The Boston American knows the name of the man accused by Pappas. This man, Pappas says, was the self-confessed lover of the slain rooming housekeeper. He was the man, Pappas says, mentioned by Adelard Arsenault, husband of the woman, when he sued her for divorce.

HAS DISAPPEARED.

The man accused by Pappas is not living at the address he gave when he took the stand and testified against Pappas at the murder trial. He has disappeared.

So has the wife of Pappas, Mrs. Laura Hilda Minnie Brown Pappas, whose testimony helped materially to send him to the death house at Charlestown jail.

With full knowledge that his days are numbered, the young Greek has written a letter, a farewell letter, to his father and mother in

HUSBAND NOT FIRM ENOUGH

Mother of Mrs. Russell Says He Didn't Rule His Wife as He Should

London, March 13.—Lack of firmness on the part of the husband in dealing with his wife was one of the contributory causes for the breakup of the home of John Hugo Russell, it was declared on the witness stand by Mrs. Blanche Heart, mother of Mrs. Russell, today.

"Mrs. Russell failed to maintain that firmness toward his wife which is necessary for a happy home," she declared, "but there was nothing wrong between my daughter and Jacques Mayer. Theirs was merely business acquaintance."

Russell sued for divorce, naming Mayer as co-respondent. He alleged that Mayer was the father of Mrs. Russell's "dream" baby.

The baby has been introduced in court as an "exhibit" so the jurors could compare its features with those of Russell and Mayer.

WAIVES 5 DAY LAW FOR CARNEGIE KIN

The marriage intentions of Cheste H. Briggs of Stamford, Ct., to Miss Nellie Madeleine Williams of No. 525 Newbury street, were filed at City Hall today, and later Judge Burke in Municipal Court waived the five day law. They were married late today by Dr. Gordon of the Old South Church. Miss Willams is the daughter of Henry Field and Jessies Ann (Carnegie) Williams of South Deerfield, and is a physiotherapist attached to the Children's Hospital. Her mothe was born in Dundee, Scotland, and was a cousin of the late steel king, Andew Carnegie.

3 FINED IN LYNN FOR 'PAINTED' COAL

Crushed stone, painted black, has been sold as coal in Lynn. Samples were exhibited today in Lynn court before and after washing. When water was applied the "coal" turned a greenish gray and showed it was nothing more than common road trap rock.

Abraham Fine of the Fine Coal Company was fined $75 for adulterating and selling coal below standard, in some instances 80 per cent. shale.

Charles Fine, a brother, and William Boston, both members of the Fine company were ordered to make restitution to the amount of $115.

A score or more complaints came from store owners selling Fine's coal that buyers had found the fuel would not burn. William J. McCotter, sealer of weights and measures, investigated. He promises prosecutions of other gougers.

START PROBE INTO VET 'BUREAU' GRAFT

By International News Service.

Washington, March 13.—Investigation of charges of graft, mismanagement and inefficiency in the United States Veteran's Bureau got under way today following a conference between Brigadier-General Frank T. Hines, new director of the bureau, and Major-General John F. O'Ryan, of New York, engaged as general counsel for the special Senate Investigating Committee.

DEMPSEY TO FIGHT FIRPO FOR MILLION

By Cosmopolitan News Service

New York, March 13. — Jack Dempsey will fight Luis Firpo, the Argentine "tiger man," next November in Argentina for a $1,000,000 purse, it became known today following Firpo's decisive victory over Bill Brennan here last night.

Tex Rickard will be advisor to the promoters who will stage the scrap, which will be delayed until necessary legislation is put through to legalize boxing in the southern republic.

The winners will receive 75 per cent. of the purse and the loser 25.

GRAND TRUNK READY TO COMPLETE ROAD

Providence, March 13.—The management of the Grand Trunk Railway has "definitely and finally" decided to proceed at once on the work of completing the Southern New England extension from Palmer, Mass., to tidewater at this city, if the Rhode Island General Assembly will grant a two years' extension of the charter.

This assurance was given in a letter written by John S. Murdock, vice-president of the Southern New England, to Harold B. Andrews, Republican floor leader in the House. Mr. Andrews today introduced a bill renewing the road's charter for two years.

JAIL FOR HARVARD MAN IN AUTO CASE

Marlboro, March 13.—Winthrop H. Wade, Jr., former Harvard football star, and son of the secretary of the Harvard Board of Overseers, was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction today by Judge Edgar Weeks. He appealed. Wade was arrested in front of the Williams Tavern with a woman who, he declared, was his wife.

He was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Police say he was fined $50 in the Northampton court recently on a similar charge.

TELLS OF KISSING BY JARDINE

Woman Witness Says She Saw Gordon Guardian Hugging Mrs. Sue Jordan

Mrs. James Merchant of East Weymouth testified at the Dorothy Gordon hearing today before Judge Leggatt in East Cambridge that she saw William F. Jardine, Dorothy's guardian, hugging and kissing Mrs. Sue Jordan at the latter's apartments in Brighton on divers occasions.

Mrs. Merchant said she saw Jardine give Mrs. Jordan money. She testified that she saw them drinking together and that Jardine imbibed enough to "be noticeable." She said she had seen Jardine in Mrs. Jordan's bedroom and other rooms in that suite.

She further asserted that Jardine said he did not want to have Sue mixed up in the case, as he feared she could not stand the strain of going to court. Mrs. Jordan replied: "They'll never get me."

It was Jardine, according to Mrs. Merchant, who advised Mrs. Jordan to go into hiding.

CAUSES SENSATION.

Mrs. Merchant's testimony was the sensation of the day. She has been a friend of Mrs. Jordan for some time. The name of Lloyd Harper, a lodger in Mrs. Jordan's apartment, was introduced for the first time today.

Mrs. Merchant was put on as a witness by Attorney John L. Sheehan, counsel for Dorothy Gordon's uncle. Attorney Robert W. Nason, counsel for Jardine, stepped to the witness stand and glared at the witness.

Mrs. Merchant said she saw Jardine and Mrs. Jordan hugging and kissing and drinking at both No. 1254 Commonwealth and No. 1309 Commonwealth avenue. She said she first met Jardine at Mrs. Jordan's a year ago last January.

Q.—Did you know Jardine and Mrs. Jordan and other persons mentioned here? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who was there? A.—I must

PHILLIPS TO MARRY GIRL OF 22

Prominent Fish Man for Whom Miss Raymond Killed Herself Takes Out Papers

Herbert F. Phillips, president of the Phillips Fish Company, a prominent wholesale fish company in Boston, for love of whom Miss Isabelle Raymond killed herself a few months ago, today filed marriage intentions at City Hall.

Phillips gave his age as forty-nine and Miss Merluzzi at twenty-two.

Phillips' father, Benjamin F. Phillips, was for fifty years prominent in the wholesale fish trade in Boston, and the younger Phillips was associated with him for many years. He was born in Swampscott, the home of the Phillips family for generations.

Both Phillips and Miss Merluzzi gave their present address as the Hotel Brewster. Miss Merluzzi was born in Swampscott and her parents still live there.

Miss Isabelle Raymond and Phillips were to have been married October 9, 1922, but the evening before the day set for the wedding Miss Raymond was found dead of gas poisoning in her apartment on Huntington avenue.

The police, investigating the death, found that Phillips had insisted that the wedding be postponed and that a quarrel had resulted.

Girl, 12, Arrested as Bootlegger; Mother Also Accused

Genevieve was arrested and placed in the care of the Children's Society.

480-POUND HALIBUT ARRIVES AT FISH PIER

A 480-pound halibut, which when made into steaks and baked or broiled will provide enough meals to feed nearly a thousand persons, arrived today at the Boston Fish Pier, on Captain "Bob" Wharton's fishing schooner Fabia. The fish, one of the largest ever brought in here, was taken after a strenuous tussle on the Georges Banks. It measured 9½ feet long, five feet wide at its greatest width and about fifteen inches thick.

ATTACK PREMIER LAW'S RUHR POLICY

FOUR DIE IN CORK, 3 IN DUBLIN

One Was Caught in Attempt to Fire Home of Michael Collins' Sister

Dublin, March 13. (By the Associated Press). — The Irish Free State authorities took renewed drastic measure today in dealing with the irregulars' campaign against the government, by executing seven men here and in Cork for possession of arms and participation in attacks.

This resumption of executions followed closely the raids over the week-end upon the colonies of Republican sympathizers in England and Scotland in which more than 100 prisoners were taken who were shipped here from England and confined in Mountjoy all on the charge of conspiracy to supply the Republicans with weapons and munitions and thus aid the anti-government cause.

The men executed today were:

TWO COMPANIES PUT UP SUGAR AGAIN

Two sugar refining companies today advanced the wholesale price 15 cents to $9.30 a hundred pounds. Arbuckle Brothers reduced from $9 to $8.75 a hundred and the Revere Sugar Refining Company held to their former prices of $9.15. The increases were put in effect by the American Sugar Refining Company and the Warner Sugar Co. No reason was given.

TO PROBE ADVANCE IN SUGAR

Washington, March 13.—Sugar, which has been climbing in price, will come in for an investigation. Secretary Hoover said today agents of the Department of Commerce are conducting a preliminary survey of the situation in Cuba to determine whether or not a probe on an extensive scale is necessary.

75,000 JOIN FIGHT TO SAVE PAPPAS FROM CHAIR

PETITION IS PREPARED FOR COX

Crete, where he was born thirty years ago.

In that letter, affirming his innocence with all the emphasis and eloquence which, in his native tongue he is capable of, he wrote he was about to be executed for a crime he did not commit.

Expecting to die, Pappas breaks the silence he has maintained ever since he was arrested and tried for the murder of Mrs. Arsenault in December, 1919.

He made his accusation to the Rev. J. Alexopoulos, pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church of Boston.

To Father Alexopoulos he also said that the reason his wife testified against him was because she feared he would accuse her of the murder of her first husband by slow poison.

Tonight a mass meeting of Greeks is to be held in Lynn, at which plans for eleventh-hour aid for Pappas will be discussed.

Only the intervention of Providence, it seems, can stay the hand that will pull the switch which will electrocute Pappas. This he realizes. Yet, believing he is to die, he makes those charges.

NAMES ACCUSED.

He told Father Alexopoulos that the man he accuses is a French Canuck, as Mrs. Arsenault was a French Canuck. He said they met in Paris, and again in Springfield, after Mrs. Arsenault had become the wife of Adelard Arsenault, who is only half French. He said that this man was living with Mrs. Arsenault as her husband, in the ill-fated boarding house on Columbus avenue, before he ever came to live there—before he, Pappas, ever met Mrs. Arsenault.

He told of various quarrels between Mrs. Arsenault and this man. He charged that he had asked the woman to change her rooming house into a resort of ill fame. He accused him of demanding that she turn over to him half of her earnings.

He said it was her refusal to do this which supplied the man's motive for murdering Alice Arsenault.

As to his wife—the woman he met in Montreal after he left Boston and wandered from city to city—he loved this English widow he had married, he told the priest. He trusted her, so that he put some $4,000 of his property in her name. He also made her beneficiary in $5,000 worth of life insurance he had.

FEARS ACCUSATION.

After he had been arrested for the murder of Mrs. Arsenault, Pappas said, somebody—he thinks it was the man he accuses—wrote to his wife in Montreal saying that he, Pappas, was going to accuse her of the murder of her first husband. It was fear of this accusation, Pappas said, which prompted her to come to Boston and testify against him—that fear, and the fact that his death means that she will come into sole possession of his property and life insurance.

Shortly before she received that letter she wrote him affectionate, endearing letters. Shortly after she received the letter she came to Boston and helped, he says, to swear away his life.

Pappas charges that his lawyer, who had been assigned to the case by the District Attorney's office, had deliberately refrained from putting him on the stand in his own defence and had, by neglect, placed him in the position he now occupies.

ACCUSES LAWYER.

He said that his counsel, the negro attorney, John W. Schenck, although he had been assigned to the case and was to receive a fee from the county, demanded that he be paid $1,500 by Pappas. He said that Schenck promised, on payment of $3,000, to see that he got off free.

In the meantime steps were taken to employ new counsel in an effort to get a stay of sentence so that the authorities may have an opportunity to make an inquiry into his charges.

HAS NEW COUNSEL.

Pappas's best friend, Charles Ernest, owner of a restaurant in Harvard square, Cambridge, engaged the new counsel for Pappas. He is James Kenney, who recently held his first conference with the condemned man.

Kenney got an outline of Pappas's statement, and today is studying a transcript of the evidence in the case, which in dry courtroom language tells the story of a rooming house that resembled Kipling's "Fultah Fisher's boarding house, where sailor men reside"; of its card-playing, liquor-loving keeper, Alice Arsenault, in whose life there figured a score of casual intimates and three lovers: of the half-breed Indian husband, the French-Canadian lover and the stolid young Greek who now faces death in the Charlestown jail because one bright day in May, 1920, they found Alice Arsenault, covered with ashes in the basement of the Columbus avenue boarding house.

"I am innocent, innocent, I swear it," Pappas told the Greek priest in his native tongue. "I didn't kill Alice Arsenault. I have never committed any crime. I never was in jail before in all my life, either in this country or in Greece.

"I am here in the death house today because I am a foreigner. If I were able to speak English well and knew more about the law of this country I could have convinced the judge and jury of my innocence. I was not given a chance to take the stand in my own defence during the trial. Now that I am condemned to death I am telling you, in order that the world may know that I am not guilty.

"I do not mind dying. I will die like a brave man. I realize that only God can save me now. But I do not wish to die with the stain of murder on my name. If I am electrocuted, I want my friends to keep right on working to clear my name. I want my mother and father to know that I died innocent of any crime. That is why I make these charges to you now."

He handed the Greek priest a letter he had written to his father and mother. He asked him to mail it for him. The letter was written in pencil. It was addressed as follows:

"To my poor, dear, unfortunate father and mother."

AS IF FROM TOMB.

The letter he wrote was as if written from the tomb. It was the last one he would write. He told them that by the time the letter was received by them, he would be dead, executed by the State.

"I am not guilty," he wrote. I did not have a fair trial. Do not cry. Be good and brave. Do not buy any flowers for me. Do not spend any money to create a memorial for me. If you feel like spending such money for me, turn it over to Greek orphans.

"I am a brave man. I do not fear to meet God. I know how to die in the manner that my people always have known how to die. Had I been guilty of the crime that was charged against me, I would never have been caught alive. I would have died as the ancient heroes of Greece died—by my own hand.

"Hold your heads high, dear father and mother. Do not bow your heads as you walk about the streets. For you must know deep in your hearts, as I know, that I am innocent. And if God sees fit, he will help me to prove it.

"Weep not for

"Your loving son,

"PAUL."

PRIEST IN TEARS.

Father Alexopoulos wept as he translated the letter.

"They have asked me," said Pappas, "why I fled from Boston after the murder of Mrs. Arsenault. They say that Mrs. Arsenault was killed on or about Christmas Day, 1919. I stayed in Boston for twenty-three days after she was supposed to have been killed. I made no effort to run away. I did not change my name.

"I left Boston because there was nothing to keep me in Boston. All my life I have been a traveler. Before I came to this country I traveled all over Greece, in Crete, in Athens, in Russia, in London, and then I came to America. And here I did not stay in one place. I was young when I came—only twenty years of age. I wanted to travel—to seek my fortune. When I arrived I went to Chicopee, to Barre, to Worcester, to Quincy, all over.

MARRIED IN MONTREAL.

"When I left Boston I went to Springfield, to New York, to Akron, to Pittsburgh, down into Virginia, and Montreal—all over. It was in Montreal that I met the woman I made my wife. We were married within two months. I used my right married under the name of Drscalakis, but I also told her I was known as Paul Pappas. If I were guilty of murder would I have done that?

"My wife was not true to me. I found that out soon. I found her one day with two men. But I loved her. That is why she couldn't look me in the face when she testified at the trial against me. That is why she did not come to see me when I was in jail. That is why she does not come to see me, now that I am about to die.

"When I came to Detroit, after I left Boston, I made application for my first naturalization papers. Was that the act of a guilty man? I made out the papers under my right name. Is that the way a murderer acts?

"People who have seen me here are surprised to find me so calm. It is because I am innocent. Warden Hendry has treated me very kindly and very fairly. I think he believes I am innocent. I think he is sorry that I am here in the house of death.

"Please tell all my friends that I am innocent of the murder of Mrs. Arsenault. If they will believe that, I will die happy. That is all that really matters."

SAW JARDINE KISS WOMAN

be perfectly honest and say that there was nobody there but Mr. Jardine, Mrs. Jordan and myself.

Q.—Did you ever see Jardine and Mrs. Jordan again? A.—Yes at the same place.

Q.—How many times? A.—I don't remember exactly. A great many times.

Q.—Did you ever see Jardine take a drink at Mrs. Jordan's apartments?" A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you see Sue Jordan take a drink while Jardine was there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was she under the influence of liquor? A.—Not so I could notice it.

Jardine admitted in his testimony yesterday that while he was suffering from a broken leg he stopped one day in the room of Dr. Coulston in Mrs. Jordan's suite at No. 1254 Commonwealth avenue.

Q.—Did you see Jardine there on that occasion? Attorney Sheehan asked: A.—Yes, that was the first time I met him.

Q.—Did you ever see Sue Jordan and Jardine out together? A.—No.

TELLS OF MEETINGS.

Q.—Did you ever see Sue Jordan and Jardine together at No. 1309 Commonwealth avenue? A.—Yes, the first time nine months ago.

Q.—Have you seen Jardine at Mrs. Jordan's apartments, No. 1309 Commonwealth avenue within the past couple of months? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many times? A.— Afew times.

Q.—Did you see them drinking at No. 1309? A.—Yes. Three or four times.

Q.—Were you there when Lloyd Harper and Sue Jordan were there? A.—Yes, within two months.

Q.—Did you ever see Jardine give Mrs. Jordan presents or money? A.—I saw him give her money.

Q.—By what door did Jardine enter Mrs. Jordan's apartment? A.—I let him in the back door one day.

Q.—Will you say you have seen Jardine under the influence of liquor at No. 1309 Commonwealth avenue? A.—I have seen him drink what I'd call considerable.

Q.—Who ha dthe liquor? A.—Jardine brought it with him.

Q.—What did Jardine say he would do if he was called upon to testify regarding Sue Jordan? A.—He said he'd deny everything.

Q.—Did she ever do any dressmaking? A.—Not that I know of.

Lloyd G. Harper testified that he has been living in Sue Jordan's apartment on Commonwealth avenue the past two weeks. He said he has not seen her recently.

"I put Sue Jordan on a car about eight weeks ago between 4:30 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon and have not seen her since," he said.

Frederick D. Gordon, father of Dorothy Gordon, was placed in a sanitarium shortly after his marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Gardiner Gordon.

Attorney Sheehan said today that he would attempt to prove that this "biased" certain witnesses appearing at the guardianship hearing.

The attorney made this statement in response to a question from Judge Leggatt after objection had been raised against his examination of Melville Hughes, one of the $10,000 employes of the Gordon Supply Company.

Attorney Sheehan asked:

"After Mr. Gordon married Jack Gardiner's sister he was put in a sanitarium as soon as he returned to Boston, was he not?"

SEEKS TO PROVE BIAS.

Replying to Judge Leggatt, Sheehan said:

"I want to prove that Hughes put Gordon in a sanitarium as soon as he married Jack Gardiner's sister. I want to show that Mrs. Gardiner came on here and took him out and as a result, these people are biased."

The court sustained the objection of the opposing counsel, but reserved Mr. Sheehan's rights.

9 SEEK TO ENJOIN HOLDING OF DANCE

Nine members of the Maple Leaf Social Club today appealed to Judge Morton in equity motion session of Superior Court for an injunction to restrain Frank Wilson from holding a dance in Convention Hall Easter Monday night. The case was referred to a master. The petitioners were: Arthur Gray, Samuel Perkins Julia Miller, Roscoe Simpson, Ody Cotter, Gertrude Bonteaux, Jane Gould, Mobela Lang and Daniel Boyd. The allege that the club gave Wilson $25 to get a hall, but when he found he was not going to furnish the music, he advertised that he would give dancing parties in Convention and Liberty halls that night.

TO SHOOT FIVE IF FRENCH ARE ATTACKED

Essen, March 13.—(By the Associted Press)—The German population of the Recklinghausen district has been warned by General Laignelot, commanding the district, that if any more French troops are assassinated or ambushed the burgomaster of Buer, held as hostage, with four town officials, will be shot as a measure of retaliation.

Two French officials were assassinated at Buer Saturday night.

This warning accompanied a general announcement that the French, because of the increase in violence and sabotage in various parts of the Ruhr, would take the severest measures to stop these attacks.

Quiet now prevails in Buer after the assassination of the two French officials and the subsequent shootings, during which seven Germans were killed there in addition to one in Dortmund.

German newspaper reports that the German officials have evidence that the French victims were shot by French chasseurs are denied by the French authorities. The French say they have a revolver of the type carried by the German Security Police, found near the scene of the shooting. They contend the two Germans shot while trying to escape arrest in Buer were the assassins.

Two sections of railroad in the Essen region are reported blown up by dynamite over night. One was near Hugel, which is the Krupp passenger station close by the Krupp villa at Hugel. The other was along the main line of the railroad between Essen and Dusseldorf, near Werden. This part of the line is being operated by French civilian railroad men.

COKE PLANT SEIZED.

The Civil Mission of Engineers headed by M. Coste, French Inspector-General of Mines, which came into the Ruhr to exact coal reparations from the Industrialists, has begun realization of its plans. A party of engineers, escorted by a battalion of French infantry, seized today the State coke plant near Westerhold with 1,000 tons of coke on hand.

Fifty Polish and German workers in the employ of the French immediately began loading freight cars with the coke, under protection of the soldiers.

The French announced that they expect within a few days to send at least one trainload of coke daily to France.

DEAD MAN'S BANK SHORT $400,000

Chicago, March 13.—With the Logan Square Trust & Savings Bank, closed since the death of its president, Fred W. Popp, last Friday, operating today under a receiver, first official indication of the total of the alleged shortage came in a statement issued by H. S. Savage, chief bank examiner. He said approximately $400,000. $175,000 in cash, would be needed to straighten out the bank's affairs.

Fred W. Popp.

David Wiedemann, Jr., vice-president of the bank, admitted "technical forgeries of three notes for $25,000.

"Perhaps I am technically liable for three notes which are in the bank," Wiedemann said, "but there was no wrong motive back of the transactions.

Fred W. Popp, Jr.

He said he signed the names of other persons on the three notes but that the transactions had been so arranged that the bank would not lose. Checks for $65,000 by Popp's son, Fred W. Popp, Jr., were found on the dead banker's body.

PROMINENT NAMES ON BOOTLEG LIST

Joseph E. Connors of Washington was a systematic bootlegger, the police of that city charge. They base their assertion on a list of customers found among his possession. This contained many names and names of such importance that Connors has been dubbed the "State, war and navy" bootlegger. Boston and Newton folk are wondering whether the Henry J. Ryan listed among the R's is the widely known "Sailor" Ryan who became nationally prominent in American Legion circles. Another name is that of Lieutenant-Colonel Duncan K. Major, chief of staff of the Yankee Division and aide to Pershing, whose promotion to a colonelcy was opposed by General Logan and General Cole.

"KING OF STICKUPS."

Arrested as the leader of a gang of holdup men which has been operating in Jamaica Plain, the South End and Brighton, the youth gave his name as William E. Gray. Inset is Patrolman John J. Gottschalk, who wrested a revolver from Gray's hand and captured him.

MISSING PRIEST MAY HAVE FLED

St. Louis, March 13.—Plans to ask Illinois State authorities to investigate the mysterious disappearance of Rev. John A. Vraniak, youthful priest of Virden, Ills., are under way at Virden, according to advices received here today. Father Vraniak disappeared a week ago while on a business trip.

Police here, while admitting they had been unable to obtain any clew to Father Vraniak's whereabouts, maintain their theory that it was either a case of foul play or that he disappeared of his own volition.

'STICKUP' KING CAPTURED IN HARD STRUGGLE

Boston's "King of Stickups," the leader of a band of gunmen responsible for twenty or more daring holdups the past three weeks, is under arrest.

He was captured today after a desperate struggle, in which he attempted to wrest a revolver from the arresting officer.

Four persons identified him as the bandit chieftain when they picked him from a lineup at police headquarters today.

"The King" is a mere youth—about twenty-five. He gave the name of William E. Gray. He is also known to the police as William Murphy. He has been rooming at No. 9 Dillaway street, South End.

About three weeks ago gangsters began raiding drug stores in different outlying sections of the city. The procedure was the same in every instance. "A pimply-faced fellow" was always directing the activities of the others. Clerks and everyone in the stores were held up at gun point and their possessions were taken. Cash drawers were ransacked. They always sped away in an automobile, kept running at the curb.

Early today Patrolman Gottschalk noted an automobile standing before a lunchroom at Commonwealth and Brighton avenues. The first three numbers of the license were 156. The officer recalled that he had been warned to watch for a car with the same first numerals which had been stolen from Cambridge.

Gottschalk went to investigate. Two men entering the restaurant ran at his approach. The man in the car began tugging at a pocket. The officer leaped. He grabbed sitting man's wrist. A fight ensued.

Today the prisoner was taken to headquarters. Robbery victims from every police precinct were ordered brought in to view the suspect.

Max Saunders and John Moynihan, employed at the Windsor Pharmacy, Jamaica Plain, picked him from eight other men as the leader of the gang that had held them up and robbed them of $114.

A few minutes later Lester Omarth and George Andrews of the Blake Pharmacy at No. 1102 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, picked him as having directed the robbery of the cash drawer of $200.

JACKIE COOGAN SUED FOR $17,050

New York, March 13.—Jackie Coogan, boy star of the films, has been sued for $17,500 by John F. Connolly, who asserts the young star owes him that sum for service as a personal representative and business manager. The action was brought against Jackie through father and guardian, John Coogan.

Jackie Coogan

Connolly says he entered into a contract to represent the young star in April, 1921, and that he was to receive seven and a half per cent of Jackie's earnings. He figures that the earnings were more than $200,000 while he acted as agent.

Murder and Revenge
French-English War?
We Need Fliers
Earth's Vile Weather

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright 1923 Star Co

UNPLEASANT NEWS from the Ruhr. Two French officials are assassinated, shot in the back. That was inevitable. Monday French soldiers fired into a German crowd, killing eight or ten. Also inevitable. Poincare had promised the soldiers "full revenge." They will take it.

WHAT LLOYD GEORGE says today as a private citizen he may be saying in a short time as Prime Minister of England. That makes important the terms he uses in his latest article concerning the French. He says France "is committed to a reckless gamble," describes French statesmen as floundering in a deadly quicksand, not daring to turn back. No French statesmen would dare change the desperate policy, fearing responsibility for the final fatal result.

LLOYD GEORGE describes French utterances as "those ravings of brains intoxicated with an unwholesome mixture of hatred, greed and military arrogance," and says the British and American governments, which saved France from conquest by Germany, are not "even to be consulted."

WHATEVER YOUR opinion of Lloyd George, now that he turns so fiercely against England's French ally, you don't forget that he is the most powerful, influential man in the British Empire, was Prime Minister yesterday, and may hold that post again next month. What then? Another war? This time between England and France, with France laughing at England's out of date battleships, saying, "We fight this time in the air, where the French ace is supreme. We'll show you a new Trafalgar, with a French Nelson." It is not impossible, the world was never in so dangerous a condition with yesterday's Allies turned bitter enemies. What insanity impels certain Americans to mix up this country with that European hell broth?

THE COST of the British army is cut down fifty million dollars for the coming year, the number of men reduced to 170,800. Not many for an empire that reaches around the world.

This country might follow that example of economy in the army and spend the money, saved, on flying machines. J. Mayhew Wainwright, Representative-elect, former Assistant Secretary of War, demands $25,000,000 additional for aviation and the demand is moderate. Twenty-five millions represent a little more than half the cost of one first class battleship, and the fleet of airships that twenty-five millions could build would sink every battleship afloat.

THERE IS nothing as important for the security of this nation as the building of an air fleet. Every airship could earn its keep in peace times, in the postoffice, forest fire service and passenger service. With a fleet thus employed the nation would have on hand a body of trained fliers. Part of their work should be bomb dropping practice, with good prizes for the best marksmen.

SCIENTISTS DO not know what caused the various ages of ice that in past ages have swept over parts of the earth, driving out primitive races, of men and animals, threatening, by the way, to return at any time, and give us a real coal problem.

IT HAS been suggested that sun spots, obscuring and cutting down the sun's supply of heat, might explain the ice ages, although shifting of the poles is a shorter, more convenient formula.

Do these sun spots, or other solar phenomena control the extraordinary weather conditions that disturb us now—an 80-mile gale in Chicago, blizzard in Wisconsin, 20 killed by storm in Tennessee, floods in Mississippi, record breaking snow storms in New York? If we were suddenly to find another ice age creeping upon us, the war against cold

SELF MASTERY Through Conscious AUTOSUGGESTION

Only Authorized Book by EMILE COUE

CHAPTER 34.

Conviction is as necessary to the suggester as to his subject. It is this conviction, this faith, which enables him to obtain results where all other means have failed.

It is not the person who acts, it is the method.

Contrary to general opinion, suggestion, or autosuggestion can bring about the cure of organic lesions.

Formerly it was believed that hypnotism could only be applied to the treatment of nervous illnesses; its domain is far greater than that. It is true that hypnotism acts through the intermediary of the nervous system; but the nervous system dominates the whole organism. The muscles are set in movement by the nerves; the nerves regulate the circulation by their direct action on the heart, and by their action on the blood vessels which they dilate or contract. The nerves act then on all the organs, and by their intermediation all the unhealthy organs may be affected.

(Bull. No. 4 of the S. L. P.)

Moral influence has a considerable value as a help in healing. It is a factor of the first order which it would be very wrong to neglect, since in medicine as in every branch of human activity it is the spiritual forces which lead the world.

DOCTEUR LOUIS RENON,

Never lose sight of the great principle of autosuggestion: Optimism always and in spite of everything, even when events do not seem to justify it.

DOCTEUR A. L., Paris (July, 1920).

To have and to inspire unalterable confidence, one must walk with the assurance of perfect sincerity, and in order to possess this assurance and sincerity, one must wish for the good of others more than one's own.

FREE STATE EXECUTES 7 IRISH REPUBLICANS

All the men were convicted of having possessed arms, and in several cases the announcements of the executions specified the attacks in which the men had participated.

ARRESTED IN CORK.

William Healy, executed in Cork, was arrested while in the possession of arms during the recent attack on a house in Blarney street, in that city, when an attempt was made to burn the home of Mrs. Powell, sister of the late Michael Collins.

ATTACKED TROOPS.

James O'Rourke was convicted of taking part in an attack on National Army troops in a Dublin hotel last month.

Michael Creevy and Henry Keenan were arrested after a raid on the bank at Oldcastle and were found guilty of possessing arms as well as a large sum of money.

Renewed activities by the irregulars are reported from County Leitrim. A strong band made a sustained attack from several points on the Free State troops at Carrick-on-Shannon last night, but was repulsed.

During a similar assault on the civic guards at Rooskey, which also was frustrated, one rebel and one Free Stater were killed and two rebels captured.

Free State and Britain Plan More Big Raids

London, March 13 (By the Associated Press).—The belief that further Irish raids are impending in Great Britain persists in the press, although it is generally reported that the persons considered most dangerous were gathered in last week-end.

Countess Markievicz

The vigilance of the Free State secret service agents in tracking enemies of the government is said to have been remarkably thorough and successful. The Daily Express says that these detectives have been working for months in co-operation with Scotland Yard.

Without arousing suspicion they became acquainted with most of the details of the gun-running and other schemes, attending most of the secret meetings of the plotters.

COUNTESS OPTIMISTIC.

The Morning Post, giving what it purports to be an account of some of these meetings says that Countess Markievicz has taken a prominent part in them.

It quotes her as saying at a recent gathering that the Irish republic's chance was imminent and that the support of many other countries could be expected.

The destruction of the British empire was the theme of other reported speeches, while troubles in India and Egypt were cited as aiding the Irish Republican aspirations.

OTHER WOMEN ACTIVE

It seems that women have been particularly active in the Irish cause in Great Britain, keeping in constant communication with the Irregular forces in Ireland and adopting many clever disguises.

One of two Irishmen held for trial yesterday for the unlawful possession of ammunition had in his possession a letter which referred to having sent 20,000 rounds of ammunition from London to Dublin.

"Am not in a position to get German rifle ammunition," the letter adds. "Must wait boats from Germany."

SAYS WIFE BARED 'LOVE FOR OTHER'

Roxbury Man Charges Doctor Stole Mate's Affections in Suit for Divorce

"I don't care for you. I like the other fellow better."

That's the reply Charles Beyers received when he taxed his wife, Margaret, with being too well acquainted with her physician, Dr. Harry Goldman of No. 538 Warren street, Roxbury, according to Beyer's story in court today.

Beyers also said that Dr. Goldman admitted liking Mrs. Beyers.

Beyers lives at No. 50 Judson street, Roxbury, and has been married seven years. He was testifying today before Judge Dolan in Suffolk Probate Court in his uncontested divorce suit.

He named Dr. Goldman, who was not in court to defend himself from the accusation. Neither was Mrs. Beyers on hand. She is said to be in New York.

Beyers, who charged his wife with infidelity and intoxication, said he first had suspicions when his wife would arrive home intoxicated late at night or even early in the morning. He went to Dr. Goldman.

The physician admitted, Beyers said, that he was enamoured of Mrs. Beyers and she of him; also that he had escorted her to theatres, dances and house parties.

Beyers made neither threat nor promise to the doctor, but asked his wife about it, with the answer quoted above. Judge Dolan reserved decision.

3 PROVIDENCE AUTO BANDITS TRAILED HERE

Three bandits and an automobile driver who figured in the holdup and $600 robbery of the proprietors of the Guarantee Loan Company at No 641 Charles street, Providence, have been traced by Providence police to Dedham.

It is believed the fugitives are headed for Boston.

The first car in which the bandits started lost a shoe and rim in Providence.

They abandoned the car and hired a taxi, which they dismissed in Pawtucket. The taxi driver returned to his stand. An hour later a call to this same stand came from Pawtucket.

The driver who had taken the four men from the crippled touring car was sent on the later call. He was surprised to find the same four passengers. They wore new hats and coats. The taxi driver took them to Dedham, where he was again dismissed. He did not know of the robbery until he returned to Providence.

The abandoned car was registered to Andrew Ricci of Providence.

Ricci was owner of an automobile used by five bandits in an attempt to rob the paymaster of the Colored Worsted Mill at Providence September 9, 1921. He served six months for conspiracy to rob in that case.

NEW MOTOR LINER WILL CARRY 1,600

London, March 13.—The largest motor passenger liner in the world, to be operated between Gothenburg and New York, has been ordered built by Armstrongs by the Swedish-American line.

The engines will be of the latest type. The vessel will be 600 feet long and 72 feet wide. It will carry 1,600 passengers.

DEATH MAY FOLLOW HOAX

Hysteria, After Her 22-Day "Joke," Puts Girl's Temperature Up to 104

Escanaba, Mich., March 13.—Evelyn Lyons, the fever fakir, who fooled medical men for days by jazzing up their thermometer to 118 degrees with a hidden hot water bag, is genuinely and seriously ill today.

Since the expose of her temperature fraud the girl has suffered a relapse which doctors now fear may cause her death, turning her deception into tragedy.

The score or more of friends who prayed or ortherwise worked for Evelyn during the height of her "fever" were not in evidence about the Lyons home today. They vanished with the expose of the hoax.

Evelyn denies the doctors charges of fraud. She tosses hysterically on her bed. She cries:

"I am sick. I am sick, and nobody wants to believe me."

Her temperature, at latest announcement, was 104 and it was the real thing, with no hot water bag assistance.

FONDNESS FOR BEING SICK.

"Hysterical malingerer" is the description of Evelyn by Dr. Morris Fishbein, associate editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, who came on here from Chicago to investigate the strange case.

She had acquired fondness for being sick. She enjoyed solicitude of her friends. Publicity appealed to her.

"We found," says Dr. Fishbein, "that she was a frequent visitor at physicians' offices.

"She had taken a fancy to medical attention through her constant association with doctors. During the war she studied nursing. Then last Fall she was injured in an automobile accident. She had suffered from fainting spells. She had been operated upon for goitre and appendicitis.

SUFFERED IN LOVE.

Evelyn, who is twenty-six years old had also suffered in love as well as in body. She had been disappointed in a heart affair and had sought legal redress in the courts.

These circumstances, according to Dr. Fishbein, form a background for her case from a psychological point of view, in explaining the basis for her queer actions. She sought to create a medical sensation. She did.

That's the "why" of Evelyn's temperature fraud. The "how" of it is another interesting phase.

The girl was greatly aided from the start by the fact that nobody dreamed of a patient trying any such extraordinary thing as faking high temperature. As Dr. Fishbein puts it:

HOW SHE DID IT.

To obtain a hot water bottle Evelyn complained to her mother of a sore on her back. Mother brought a small hot water bag or bottle, six inches by four.

She feigned coughing spells just as the doctors were ready to put the thermometer in her mouth. This caused delay just long enough to enable her to touch the thermometer bulb against the hot bottle. This would drive the mercury up to abnormal mark, like 115, 116 and even 118 degrees.

In medical thermometers the mercury, once reaching a mark, remains there until shaken down. So the bottle record stood, even after the girl had put the thermometer in her mouth.

WORCESTER MAN DIES IN FLAMING PLANE

Worcester, March 13.—Sergeant August J. Christian, U. S. Marine Corps, was instantly killed when an airplane in flames fell in Port au Prince, Haiti. Word of the death was received by Christian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Christian, of No. 3 Brown street.

BACK BAY FOLK FIGHT BUILDING LAW CHANGE

Robert Homans appeared before the Legislative Committee on Judiciary today and bitterly opposed the petition of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard to lift the restrictions on Commonwealth avenue-Arlington street property now occupied by the Engineers' Club.

The hearing revealed that the now exclusive Back Bay territory was once the dumping ground for all the sewage of the South End.

Augustus P. Loring, trustee of the building, said the property is owned by the Lowell Lecture Fund, of which A. Lawrence Lowell is the head.

It is occupied by the Engineers' Club, which is soon to divide its occupancy with the big University Club. The building cannot at present be remodeled nor can new boilers be installed, however, because of building restrictions dating back to the time when the whole district was a swamp.

The especial restriction provides that no cellar in the Back Bay shall be built more than four feet below the level of the old mill dam.

"When the State built up that land and sold it to the people, it secured better prices for the property because of the restrictions it imposed upon future building," said Mr. Homans.

"Commonwealth avenue was intended to be handsome and splendid. That was the purpose of the city and its people. It is one of the show-places of the city.

"This bill of Mr. Lowell's is the entering wedge to change the whole character of the buildings along the avenue."

KRUGER FORTUNE "RECOVERED"

London, March 13.—South Africa is greatly excited over the reported discovery in the Pietersburg district of a vast sum of gold bars and coin which Paul Kruger, late president of the Transvaal, is said to have buried in the course of his flight to Delagoa Bay and Europe about 20 years ago to escape capture by the British.

Discovery of the fabled fortune of Paul Kruger, who left an estate valued at $3,750,000, has been the goal of adventurers and commercial syndicates for some time. More than $3,000,000 in gold, representing the bulk of Kruger's money, was supposed to have been cemented in the hold of the barque Dorothea which sank on Tenedos Reef off the Zululand coast about twenty years ago.

$30,000 IN DOPE SEIZED ON STEAMER

Thirty-eight tins of opium paste, valued at $30,000, were seized by Federal narcotic officers today on the tramp steamer Suruga, docked at Pier 4 in the Mystic River.

Foo Ah Sang, Chinese steward of the ship, was arrested and taken before United States Commissioner Hayes. He was held in $5,000 bonds.

Government agents have been awaiting the arrival of the Suruga several days. Information from Hamburg said that among the ship's unlisted cargo was a quantity of opium and liquor.

When Federal agents boarded the ship Foo Ah Sang was engaged straightening out his pantry. They thought he seemed especially interested in covering up certain crockery vessels. Closer observation divulged a number of opium tins and several bottles of choice liquor.

Foo Ah Sang was at a loss to account for the opium. He shrugged his shoulders and told the officers it was a mystery to him. More opium was found behind pans in the galley. It was all very surprising to Foo Ah Sang. "Me no understand," he said. "Me only steward."

DISABLED ENGINE TIES UP TRAFFIC

A loose tire on a wheel of a New Haven locomotive just outside South Braintree caused a tie-up on the Plymouth division for over an hour today.

The locomotive attached to five coaches left South station at 6:40 for Plymouth by the way of the South Shore division, being due at Plymouth at 9:02 and at Braintree at 7:03. The train made Braintree on time, and just after leaving, the engineer noticed the loose tire and immediately brought his train to a stop.

Another engine was sent from South Braintree, brought the cars back to Braintree and sent them over the other track. The disabled engine was later towed into South Braintree.

GOLDMAN WILLING TO COME EAST

Chicago, March 13.—Removal proceedings in the case of Abraham Goldman, of Chicago, father-in-law of Joseph Marcino, the barber-banker, who is alleged to have partly wrecked the First National Bank of Warren, Mass., the Niagara Life Insurance Company of Buffalo, and caused loss of other institutions and financial supporters, were dropped today when it was indicated that extradition would be obtained without opposition by Goldman.

Bonds of $10,000 for Goldman's appearance in Boston was expected to be raised for the defendant today.

DECLARES THEY ARE INNOCENT

Rev. G. W. Sargent of State Prison Asks All Ministers to Help Get Them Out

Rev. George Winthrop Sargent, Protestant Episcopal chaplain for the Charlestown State Prison, has issued a statement in which he emphatically declares the "Rollins boys" convicted of murder, are innocent and "must come out of prison."

The convicted men, of whose innocence Chaplain Sargent is so strongly convinced, are George L. Rollins, convicted of killing Ordway R. Hall, and Charles Rollins, convicted of killing Edward P. Foley. Both are serving life sentences.

Rev. G. W. Sargent.

THE ROLLINS BOYS.

There are two innocent men in convict cells in the State Prison. Two boys who are sentenced for life for crimes which they did not commit. You will ask how such things happen in this enlightened day. It is almost inconceivable, some will say, but it is true.

A chain of circumstances, a bad name, branded upon them by Dame Rumor, for one of the boys an attorney, tottering and dozing into imbecility, lack of money—all these have helped to "railroad" them.

The writer has known the Rollins boys and most of the members of the family for some time. He has known also another man charged with the same crime. He heard the principal witness against George Rollins swear that this third man did it.

That is, she has sworn that George Rollins did it, and then she swore that Murphy did it. Perhaps if still another man were accused, she would again be mistaken in her identification.

MUST COME OUT.

The Rollins boys, the Rollins family, have suffered greatly from false report. We have heard many charges made against them but not one is believed to be true. There were mistakes and indiscretion in their lives, but those which we hear on the street are gross exaggerations, or worse.

Now then, what are we to do about it? Leave these boys in prison? God forbid! It is a miscarriage of justice.

The whole charge is preposterous. Boys who are good mechanics and earning a high wage do not suddenly buy guns and hold up a store in their own neighborhood! They would not have a chance of getting away. People rob where they are not known. A neighbor is not a hold-up man.

These men must come out of prison. They are innocent.

BISHOP TUTTLE IN CRITICAL CONDITION

St. Louis, March 13.—Virtually no hope was held out by physicians today for the recovery of Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, presiding bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who is suffering from a severe attack of grippe with which he was stricken a week ago. The prelate, who is 86 years old, was reported resting easily this morning, however, after a critical day yesterday.

SEEK YOUNG GIRL AND MARRIED MAN

Greater Boston police are searching for John Fadna, married, of No. 42 Light street, Lynn, and Marie Orehowa, 17 years old, daughter of Michael Orehowa of No. 4 Ray street, Lynn. Fadna and the girl disappeared one week ago today. The girl's parents had noticed Fadna's attentions to the her and had asked him to stay away. Fadna is forty years old and the father of two children.

A BLEMISHED SKIN QUICKLY HEALED BY THIS SULPHUR

Face, Neck and Arms Quickly Made Clear By Mentho-Sulphur

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops, and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

"USE LIQUID ARVON"

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It does no good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and you hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Easiest Way to Remove Ugly Hairy Growths Use Delatone

(Beauty Culture)

Here is a method for removing hair from arms, neck or face that is unfailing and is quite inexpensive: Mix a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water and spread on hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes, rub it off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. No harm or inconvenience results from this treatment, but be careful to get genuine delatone and mix fresh as wanted.

NO REAL BOOZE IN HUB, SAYS APPLEBY

There is practically no real liquor obtainable in Boston, John D. Appleby, divisional prohibition chief, declared in his "swan song" today.

Division Chief Appleby, who leaves the prohibition service tomorrow to retire into private life, said Bostonians are beingfleeced daily when they buy whiskey.

Incidentally Chief Appleby stated that he had contemplated retirement from the service before leaving New York, and had held on merely to permit the prohibition authorities to secure a successor.

"All the liquor being sold in Boston and surrounding territory," said Chief Appleby, "is a fake. If the men here knew what they were buying, they would quit in disgust.

USE OLD-TIME LABELS.

J. D. Appleby

"It is either imported wiskey cut with alcohol, what we call 'three in one' liquor, or it is redistilled denatured alcohol or alcohol washes. Even bay rum is being redistilled and the alcohol used in liquor.

"The manufacturers of this stuff have quantities of labels of old-established brands, and even have the government strip stamps, which they use on the bottles.

"It is impossible to detect the difference by examining the bottle and to a great majority of drinkers the liquor tastes all right. The alcoholic proof is the same, too, but chemical analysis shows what the stuff contains.

"The Liquor I have described is about the best sold, retailing for from $10 to $15 a bottle, but there is a tremendous quantity of inferior stuff which is manufactured in back rooms and tenement stills. This latter is plain poison as the hospital records show.

"The bootleggers do not care what they sell, inasmuch as they are breaking the law anyway. All they are after is money and it is easier obtained by redistillation than by smuggling liquor into the country.

"I don't mean to say that no liquor is smuggled in by way of the Canadian border or by water. There is some coming in that way, and there will be considerably more when the weather moderates, but there is no where near the demand here that there is in New York. I look upon New York as the central point for the smuggling of liquor, both as a receiving port and a distribution centre.

Of course when we got busy with the prohibition fleet and blocked off New York, it forced the rum runners bringing liquor in by sea to move either up or down the coast. Naturally some came this way, but the entry of liquor into Boston is comparatively small.

FOREIGNERS IGNORE LAW.

The chief evil I found here is to be found in every congested centre where there is a class of foreign-born persons, who came to this country thinking liberty meant license. They ignore the prohibition law utterly, making and selling moonshine in quantities.

"Many of the bootleggers have taken up the smuggling of drugs, and jewelry, as there is a great deal of money in it, and the chances of detection are comparatively small.

"I am retiring from the prohibition forces to enter private business, a step I had contemplated for some time before leaving New York. There was absolutely no rupture between Major Haynes, Commissioner Yellowley and myself, and I might have remained in the service indefinitely.

DENIES ANY FRICTION.

"My desire to retire was made known to Commissioner Haynes and Mr. Yellowley, and I agreed to remain in service until a successor could be obtained. Then when the shift in divisional chiefs took place I was asked to look over the situation in and around Boston and agreed to do so.

"My conclusions as to conditions here will be contained in a report which I will make to Washington. As far as a local dry fleet is concerned, that is entirely up to Washington. I shall leave here tomorrow, at which time my successor, Charles J. Smith of Ohio will be here. I expect he will arrive today."

WOMAN PHYSICIAN FREED OF CHARGES

Dr. Elizabeth M. Abbe, of Dale street, Roxbury, charged in Roxbury District Court with illegal surgery and manslaughter in connection with the death of sixteen-year-old Eleanor Joosephs, of Massachusetts avenue, South End, late in December last, was discharged today by Judge Merritt, no probable cause being found by the court. The Joseph girl died at the City Hospital whither she had been taken, where it is alleged she mentioned the woman doctor's name before dying.

Harrisburg, Pa.—A bill, supported by the Pinchot administration, prohibiting the granting of degrees by colleges having less than $500,000 endowment, was introduced in the House today.

The GARDEN OF PERIL

is the story of an artless girl's fight against a passion-crazed woman of the world—

There's the peril of a woman's eyes—cunning, veiled with a doll like stare, desire, faintly veiled, leading Punch Heseltine to the brink of dishonor—

And the peril of a dusky garden —where youth and sweetness, refreshing as a "pool of lilies," made Punch realize the folly of his own mad recklessness—

But the peril of the fruit of that garden was the deadliest of all—it mocked at ambition, desire, desperately kept youth—

And as an antidote to the poison of all three—a lovely girl, the flower of the garden, "calm and tranquil as a gardenia opening in the moonlight."

DEMANDS THAT STATE PROBE CHARGES OF INSURANCE FRAUDS

ACTION IS ASKED BY TARBELL

Quotes Downes That Bills Are Filed in Hope They Will Be Bought Off

A demand for a special investigation of an alleged statement by John H. Downs, State House representative of the insurance interests, that anti-insurance bills are being filed with the Legislature in the hope that the persons who file them "will be bought off by the companies," was made today by Senator Warren E. Tarbell of East Brookfield before the Committee on Insurance.

Tarbell appeared before the committee in favor of a bill for a general investigation of the insurance companies.

"A few thousand dollars spent by the State in such an investigation," he said, "would reveal conditions in the casualty companies that are infinitely worse than those revealed by the investigations in New York and Pennsylvania."

"PERSONAL GAIN."

Senator Tarbell read newspaper clippings of a speech made by Downs recently to an organization of insurance interests, Downs was quoted as saying that many of the 77 insurance bills now before the Legislature were filed by persons "for personal gain."

"If that condition is true," said Tarbell, "let's investigate this deplorable condition and end it at once.

"I call to your attention that Charles J. Hodsdon, legislative agent of the American Federation of Labor, said before a committee last week that 'one of the men representing the insurance companies at the State House told me that the Legislature hoped the companies would buy off the opposition.' "

Mr. Downs, who was present, said he had been entirely misquoted by the press.

"IMPOSSIBLE TO WIN"

Mrs. Frederick W. Schmidt of Boston joined in the demand for a general probe. She said the people are not getting justice from the insurance corporations.

She said she and her husband were run down by a youth driving an unlighted auto. They received injuries which incapacitated them for two years. She said the boy's father held a policy for $10,000 and she and her husband were dragged through the courts by the insurance company and were frequently told it was impossible for them to win against a $5,000,000 corporation.

Edward C. Stone of the Federated Insurance Companies said an investigation is unnecessary because no client has ever been defrauded. Guy W. Cox, brother of Governor Cox, said if such an investigation is to be made the life insurance companies, which he represents, should not be included.

Liars' Contest Is Started by One Million Whoppers

Oh, boy! What whoppers!

The first batch of lies read by the Liars' Contest Editor caused him to blush. Peerless fabrications! Fluent falsehoods. The first day a million people sent in lies. No, that's a slight exaggeration. Perhaps it was only half a million. But an awful lot. Anyway, a dozen.

Of course the Liars' Contest Editor has heard all of these lies before. In fact, he has told them all before. Most of them, anyway. Anyway one or two of them. When it comes to plain and fancy lying, the Liars' Contest Editor doffs his chapeau to no man or woman.

But to the contest. The Liars' Contest Editor has selected a few of the choice fibs sent in following yesterday's announcement of the contest. They are printed herewith. Too bad space is limited. Of course, we could have the whole edition if we wanted it. But we scorn to ask it. We can say more in fewer words than anybody in the world. Almost anybody. Anyway, a few.

WINNERS GET TICKETS.

The authors of the lies printed today have won each a pair of Annie Oakleys to a play about the most lovable liar of the present generation—"Lightnin' Bill" Jones, the mendacious hero of "Lightnin'," now playing at the Hollis Theatre. This play was chosen because it glorifies a type of liar that the Lord must love because he made so many of them.

The American has purchased a couple of seats for each of those whose lies are printed. Tomorrow we'll print a few more of the choice lies that are sent in.

And at the end of the contest three ten dollar gold pieces will be awarded for the best lies submitted during the entire contest, as follows:

One ten dollar gold piece for the best example of a black lie that did the most harm.

One ten dollar gold piece for the best example of a white lie that did the most good.

One ten dollar gold piece for the funniest lie that exhibits the most wierd stretch of the imagination.

Here are today's ducat winners:

"I was engaged to marry a nice girl. I was making $30 a week. She said she'd marry me as soon as my salary was raised to $40, explaining that $30 a week was not enough for two to live on. I asked for a raise, and it was refused. So I went back and said I had gotten the raise. We were married.

"For eight months I walked to work, cut out smoking and drinking and lunched on milk toast, thus enabling me to turn in practically the entire $30, so that I got away with it. And what do you suppose happened? Walking to work proved the best possible exercise for me, greatly increasing my health. Enforced disuse of tobacco and booze broke me of lifelong habits along those lines. Sensible lunching did me a world of good. All this showed in my work, with the result that I was promoted to a better job at a salary of $50 a week. How's that?

"E. F. D.

"Chelsea."

If E. F. D. of Chelsea will take the trouble to call on the Liar's Contest Editor, he'll get a couple of seats for "Lightnin'."

PAIR OF LIARS.

No. 2:

"My wife and I are both pretty fair liars. We went to Washington last week, and when we passed the Washington monument, she pointed to the top and said:

" 'Look at the fly crawling up there on top of the monument.'

"I said, 'Yes, its too bad, that fly is not long for this earth.'

" 'How do you know?' she asked.

" 'It has palpitation of the heart,' I said.

" 'How can you tell?' she asked.

" 'I can hear its heart flutter,' I said.

"CAREY SMITH,

"No. 465 Commonwealth avenue."

Come in for your tickets, Carey.

MORE TOMORROW.

No. 3:

"I want to tell you about the largest locomotive I ever ran. It was on the Sante Fe line, where the grades run to 110 per cent. I saw a tramp seated on the coal pile, stealing a ride. I gave him a push and he landed in the water tank. Half an hour later I found him treading water in the water gauge.

"JOHN FINDLAY, Trinity Court, Boston."

PERCY POLLOCK QUALIFIES.

SOLDIERS CUT DRILL; FACE COURTMARTIAL

Lawrence, March 13. — Several members of Wagon Company 102, of the 26th division of the National Guard, today face courtmartial as the result of their attendance at a bout at City Hall last evening. During the evening these members were quietly paged, and then taken into custody by a corporal's guard. They had failed to attend a drill in charge of Captain Leon C. Waite, and according to the M. N. G. regulations, they may be sent before a courtmartial.

FIGHT FOR LOVE OF CIRCUS RIDER

Two men battled to almost complete exhaustion in a South Boston apartment house over the hand of Miss Florence Hughes, dainty rider and model in a big circus.

Following a trail of blood which led from the house, police came upon the prostrate form of one of combatants, John Barrett. He had collapsed from the loss of blood when he reached the corner of F street and Broadway. Barrett was taken to the City Hospital and will recover.

The other principal in the love-battle managed to bind up his wounds and get away. His identity is not known.

FURNITURE WRECKED.

Miss Hughes was found alone in the room in her apartment at No. [illegible] street, South Boston, where the terrible encounter had taken place. The furniture was wrecked. The floor, walls and ceiling were spattered with blood. Broken kitchen utensils and bottles covered the floor.

The entire neighborhood had been aroused by the struggle and a report was sent to the Athens Street Police Station that a murder had been committed.

Sergeant Flaherty and Special Officer Eation headed a detail of police officers who were rushed to the scene. Miss Hughes greeted the officers in a dazed manner.

JILTS FIANCE.

Barrett, she said, has been engaged to her for some time, but now she is through with him. She is thirty-two years old. He is a year her senior and lives at No. 29 I street, South Boston. Miss Hughes said she is known to the circus world as "Doris Fisher."

Barrett, according to Miss Hughes came to visit her, bringing a friend. The latter was a stranger to her. As the stranger began to pay attention to her, she said, Barrett became fired with jealousy.

40 DEAD, 200 INJURED, IS THE TOLL OF GREAT STORM IN SOUTH

DAMAGE IS PLACED AT MILLIONS

Radio Used in Ohic to Locate Trains Cut Off From Telegraph

Chicago, March 13.—Gradual restoration of telephone and telegraph facilities in the storm-swept area between the Rocky Mountains and the Appalachian range today brought additional details of death and destruction that followed in its wake.

The dead totals forty, the injured 200.

The worst effects of the storm accompanied by a wind that reached proportions of a tornado in some localities, were felt at Pinson and Deanburg, Tenn., where the death toll was seventeen and the injured between fifty and seventy-five.

These towns were demolished and today a contingent of Red Cross workers were on their way to the scene.

Among heroic acts in connection with the storm, that of Henry Kline, a youth of Pinson, stood out. He walked and ran almost twelve miles to Jackson, Tenn., through pitch darkness and blinding rain to give first report of the disaster.

The wind carried a farmhouse in Madison County, Kentucky, fifty yards, demolishing it and causing the death of three of its thirteen occupants.

In Ohio two persons were killed. The story brought out a new use for radio when "lost" trains were located by broadcasting from Chicago pleas to amateur radio fans to ascertain the whereabouts of the trains, and then report through wireless agencies to the receiving stations here.

Vincent Club Head Runs Little Shop on Beacon Hill, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

IT'S no small distinction to be president of the Vincent Club, but it's no small job either. Yet Miss Penelope Parkman of Commonwealth avenue not only holds this office, but, together with her sister, runs a fascinating little shop on Beacon Hill.

Mrs. William P. Homans (Edith Parkman) is the sister, and the shop, known as the Revere street Shop, is at No. 28. Here the clever leader of the Vincentites and her sister sell the most beautiful Scotch woolen goods.

There are sweaters, mufflers and golf hose, all in the most eye-treating colors. Soft browns, greens, plum color, or heather. Often there are pieces of goods ready to be made up into a sport-skirt to match a certain sweater. Cunning knitted dresses for children and dainty, gossamer-like scarfs for evening wear. All to be had at reasonable prices.

THAT'S all about what is in the shop. But the outside of this tiny place of business deserves a few words. First of all, there's the gate—a wooden affair with Jacobean-looking hinges. Above swings a square wooden sign reading The Revere Street Shop. You open the gate and pass through a tiny flag-stoned courtyard. Another door, and you are in a rather small, low-studded room with heavy-beamed ceilings. That's the shop. There is a huge, cosy fireplace, and the simple furniture is all of antique design.

The funny part about the little shop is that, although it is at No. 28 Revere street, it really isn't. It is like this: Miss Parkman's sister, Mrs. Homans, lives at No. 83 Myrtle street, which runs parallel to Revere street, and part of the basement of this house has been converted into the shop. As Myrtle street is higher up on Beacon Hill than Revere street, the courtyard in front of this basement shop is level with Revere street, so when you enter from that street you don't realize that No. 28 River street is really the basement of No. 83 Myrtle street.

Last Winter, by the way, that jolly young couple, the Reggy Fosters, (Frances Hoar) had the Homans' place on Myrtle street. This season they have taken a house at No. 77 Revere street. They seem quite wedded to the Hill.

APROPOS of presidents of the Vincent Club, last year's leader of this clever group, Miss Elsie Nichols, is still in Paris. She and her mother, Mrs. Henry Gilman Nichols of Commonwealth avenue, sailed abroad very early in the season, I believe.

LIKE their dance last year, the costume affair which the Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard holds on Friday night is to be a rustic dance, the apparel of those attending to smack of the bucolic.

Among the patronesses for the event are Mesdames A. Lawrence Lowell, Robert deC. Ward, Edwin S. Webster and Joseph Seabury.

BRIDE ENDS LIFE AT ALTAR FOR "OTHER LOVE"

Geneva, March 13.—News of a pathetic tragedy comes from Lindau, a small island in Lake Constance, where pretty Fraulein Moser, twenty-one years old, shot herself before the church altar rather than wed a wealthy man twice her age.

When the priest asked the usual question whether she accepted the man as her husband, the bride replied: "No, no, I love another. My parents know this—I would rather die first."

With these words she drew a bridal bouquet and shot herself through the head, falling unconscious at the feet of the priest, and dying within a few moments.

MUMMIFIED BODY OF INDIAN FOUND

Noel, Mo., March 13.—The discovery of the partly mummified body of a pre-historic Indian at the base of the bluffs on the Cow Skin River near here has added zest to the work of archaeologists, who have unearthed here many souvenirs of a race long dead. The skeleton was wrapped in ragged deer skin robes.

COAKLEY SICK; BERMAN CASE PUT OFF

The illness of Daniel H. Coakley caused the postponement today of the hearing before Justice Carroll in Supreme Court of the $100,000 damage suit filed by Meyer Berman, former proprietor of the Higgin's House, who figured prominently in the Pelletier-Coakley disbarment proceedings.

When Attorney W. Minot Hurd asked for continuance because of the illness of his client, Justice Carroll demanded an affidavit from a physician. This was furnished by Dr. Henry S. Rowen, who sent word that Coakley is confined to his home on Parsons street, Brighton, with a severe attack of bronchitis.

Berman claims that Coakley extorted $50,000 from him under threat of criminal prosecution by Joseph C. Pelletier, then district attorney. Berman had been accused by a married man of illegally renting a room to his wife and another man.

When Berman filed suit, Coakley appealed to the Supreme Court on the grounds the suit could not be maintained. The full bench overruled so Justice Carroll set today for a hearing. It was continued to one week from today.

N. E. IN NO DANGER OF QUAKES

New England is in no danger from serious earthquakes, according to Professor Jay B. Woodworth of the Department of Geology at Harvard. Slight rock slips, similar to that which frightened residents in the Merrimack valley in New Hampshire last night, will continue to occur at various points in the valley every few years, but there is no probability of a serious quake.

"Earthquakes," said Professor Woodworth, "are caused by the slipping of rock strata deep down under the surface of the earth. A few thousands, or many millions of tons of rock, according to the severity of the shock, are pulled by the force of gravity to a lower level along a fault in the bed rock. In New England we are about done with earthquakes. The bed rock has found its final bed. Every few years there is a rumble somewhere in the Merrimac valley, clear down to its mouth at Newburyport, a gentle tremor that rattles the crockery and upsets a woodpile here and there. But it is extremely unlikely that there will ever again be a serious earthquake in New England.

"The last serious earthquake to occur in this region was in 1755, when seven buildings and 1,500 chimneys were knocked down in Boston. Since the Harvard seismograph was installed in 1908 it has recorded an average of eighty earthquakes a year in all parts of the world, but none of the important ones occurred in the United States."

Down-Town Traffic Menaces Religion, Dean Sperry Says

Dean Willard L. Sperry of the Harvard Divinity School told an audience at Keith's today that driving an auto in Boston traffic is a peril to religion.

"If you want to keep your Christianity, do not drive too much in down-town traffic of Boston, because such experience demands too much of you or, in other words, makes too much of a drain on your religious poise," he said. "You have not got enough religion at times to resist what such an effort demands of you. It may make you lose all religion, because it is too exacting.

"Don't run into temptation in any sphere of life of putting too much weight upon your religious conviction."

"WETS" IN N. Y. ASSEMBLY LOSE

Albany, N. Y., March 13.—After hours of debate, the New York Assembly today took a record vote on the merits and demerits of prohibition and the "wets" lost.

The vote came on a motion to discharge the committee on excise from further consideration of bills designed to repeal the Mullen-Gage prohibition enforcement law. It was defeated 74 to 70. The committee had refused to report the bills.

The vote clung closely to party lines, with the Democrats generally favoring and Republicans opposing. Defeat of the motion is accepted to mean the end of the effort to repeal the law for this year at least, "Wet" leaders frankly admitted defeat.

The Veteran Motorist— is saved from a fine
Discovers that Socony dealers, mostly local men, take more than business interest in motoring public
"Paying fines certainly takes the joy out of motoring. I've paid only three in eleven years but that's three too many. And a couple of Sundays ago I just missed having to fork over another. I was up Boston way and thought I'd drop in on a chap I know there. Pulled up right under an arc light in front of his house. There was a garage across the street that handled Socony Gasoline. As I had parked right under the bright street light I thought everything would be safe and O. K. if I put mine out and saved the battery.
"But just as I was going up the steps of Tom's house somebody hailed me from across the street and I noticed that it was a man coming over from the garage. 'Thought I'd just give you a tip, brother,' he said. 'Some cities you know are stricter than others about keeping lights on after dark. They're out for victims around here, especially the officer on this beat. Thought I'd just mention it before you went in.'
"You can bet it didn't take me long to go back and put the dimmers on. Mighty good of him to tip me off that way. If it had been anybody besides a Socony man I'd have been surprised. But somehow I've come to expect that kind of super-service from Socony dealers. They're an intelligent, on-the-level bunch of fellows all right."
Socony is a wonderful gasoline for winter motoring. Might as well use it regularly, you can get it everywhere—and it's always dependable. You can count on that.

DECLARES MRS. WELLS CURSED INNKEEPER BEFORE SLAYING HIM

THREAT OF DEATH IS QUOTED

Prosecutor Opens the Case Against Mineola Woman on Trial for Murder

By International News Service.

Mineola, N. Y., March 13. Testimony of thirty-five witnesses, presented in rapid fire order in support of a charge of second-degree murder against Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Billie) Wells, is expected to advance the State's case well toward conclusion today.

She is accused of slaying Captain James Pettit, proprietor of Massapequa Inn, where she was housekeeper.

Pettit and Mrs. Wells lived together as man and wife, although Pettit was married to another woman and Mrs. Wells also was married, Assistant District Attorney Edwards declared in opening for the State.

"We found that Mrs. Wells and Pettit were together in his room between 10 and 11 o'clock on the night of the shooting," he said. "She was heard to mutter a vile imprecation against Pettit as she left his room and came down stairs.

"Mrs. Wells went out through the kitchen, and George Boyen, an employe of the inn, heard her mutter, 'I don't give a damn' as she left the house."

Edwards then told of the discovery of the inn-keeper's body lying in a pool of blood and described the gunshot wound over his heart. He, summed up dramatically:

"We will show that Mrs. Wells drank from five to nine glasses of whisky before the shooting, that she was in an ugly mood, and we will produce witnesses who heard her say: 'I am going to kill somebody soon, and that's going to be old man Pettit.' "

"Before the shooting she said to one of our witnesses, 'Look at all these women in Nassau county who have shot men and got off. I think they were justified in doing it.'

"When it was pointed out to her that a woman's conscience would bother her after such an act, she snapped her fingers and said, 'I wouldn't give it another thought..' "

Mr. Edwards said he would show that Pettit, who was shot to death, could not have committed suicide.

COMPLETE JURY TO TRY FOSTER

St. Joseph, Mich., March 13. (By the Associated Press).—Completion by a jury to try William Z. Foster, charged with violating the Michigan law against criminal syndicalism, in today's session of court was regarded probable.

O. L. Smith, assistant attorney-general of Michigan, who is directing the prosecution, announced today that the jury probably would be taken to Bridgman, twenty miles south of here, where Foster and 75 others indicted with him, are alleged to have met last August to hold a national convention of the Communist party.

STILL EXPLODES IN EVERETT

The explosion of a still in the attic of a two-story family dwelling at No. 167 Belmont street, Everett, today was followed by fire, which did $2,000 damage to the house.

The police discovered two stills, 100 gallons of alcohol and several hundred bottles. The house is occupied by Israel Lowenstein, who was not at home at the time of the fire. Mrs. Jennie Wolf, of No. 118 Belmont street, is the owner of the property.

'Helping Hand' Will Spread Sunshine

WANTS DOLLIE OF HER OWN

May Enright playing with doll which Boston American's "Helping Hand" gave to Amelia Lanciano.

How the Boston American Helping Hand Editor got seventy-five answers to the request of little Amelia Lanciano for a kewpie doll, and how his belief that most everybody would rather do good thaan ill was confirmed, was told clearly in Monday's paper in a "happy" story.

But there were some who were curious to know what was to be done with the seventy-five kewpie dolls and other toys that were offered in those letters.

The Helping Hand Editor carefully kept every one of those letters. Of course little Amelia wouldn't be seventy-five times as happy with seventy-five dolls as with one, so it would hardly do to pass the entire lot along to her.

The reporter who went up to the House of the Good Samaritan in Brookline to see if Amelia was pleased with the doll she got found a partial answer.

The House of the Good Samaritan is a very exclusive hospital, you see. If you can pay over $10 a week for your care, you won't ever be admitted to the House of the Good Samaritan. From $10 down to nothing, you can have the best in the house.

The reporter learned this when he was ushered into a ward where eight little girls lay in bed. For these eight little girls there were two dolls.

If you were a girl once, and mothered a doll, you can appreciate that a community doll is not enough. Socialism may be all right with railroads, but not with dolls, particularly when you must lie in bed all day.

These eight girls all had heart trouble. No matter how much they felt the urge to go out and play tag in the bright sunshine, they couldn't, for that would be fatal.

So here is where some of those seventy-five dolls are headed. Letters will be written to the people who so kindly offered dolls and toys, and enough of these will be told of the eight little girls, all heart cases, in one ward with two dolls.

The photographer, who went with the reporter, was swamped with requests for pictures. They wouldn't let him go until he had taken everyone's picture.

When he got back to his dark room he went right to work and developed two of the pictures. They were May Enwright and Nora Rafferty.

May and Nora are going to have dolls—dolls that have to be dressed and undressed and comforted and disciplined from time to time.

There are many other little sick or poor girls that are going to have dolls, too, because seventy-five people stopped in their tracks to heed the plea of little Amelia.

2 "FARMED-OUT" BOYS RUN AWAY

Being farmed out from a State school did not appeal to Leslie Roberts, eighteen years of ago, or Francis Phinney, sixteen, who, today were taken into custody by the Roxbury police while driving a horse and wagon, alleged to have been taken from a farmer at South Dartmouth.

Both boys have been inmates of State reform schools, the Roberts boy at the Shirley School and Phinney at the Lyman School. They were farmed out to Antonio Motto, a farmer of Bickerville, R. I. Tiring of farm life, they went across the State line into South Dartmouth, where, it is alleged they appropriated the horse and wagon and drove fifty-seven miles into Boston.

Representatives of the State schools department at the State House sent them back to their respective schools.

SACCO MAY BE FORCED TO TAKE FOOD

By BERT FORD

Nicola Sacco's attempt to starve himself to death in Dedham jail may be defeated by legal requirements.

Nicola Sacco.

If Judge Thayer should overrule the motions for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti and do it before Sacco's hunger strike reaches the fatal stage, the prisoners would be automatically sentenced to die in the electric chair.

It would then be the duty of the jail officials to force nourishment on Sacco and keep him alive to carry out the mandate of the law.

Lieutenant Karl Wanderer, convicted of slaying his wife, went on a hunger strike in Chicago several years ago for two months, but had nourishment forced on him and was kept alive until sent to the gallows.

DAILY GROWS WEAKER.

Sacco's condition today indicated that he may be advised by the jail physician and officials not to attempt to attend the hearing next Friday.

"He is daily growing weaker," said Dr. Arthur M. Worthington today. "He told me he felt weaker and that his head seemed tired, but he is suffering no pain or ache of any kind. I don't look for any acute condition before the thirtieth day of his fast, which, by the way, will be on Friday.

WILL SOON TAKE TO BED.

"If he attends the hearing on that day he will do so on his own initiative. I don't think he will take to his bed by then, though he will before long now, judging from his increasing weakness. His legs were the first place to show loss of strength.

"He greeted me always with a smile. When I asked him how he was feeling he said he felt pretty well.

Sacco has lost twenty pounds in twenty-seven days. He weighed 147 pounds when be began his hunger strike on February 15, and today he tips the scales at 127.

WARNS OF FLOOD WHEN SNOW IN N. E. MELTS

Railroad, mill men and other observers along the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers in particular sent out warnings today that a warm rain or high temperatures will set loose an avalanche that will swell the streams.

Continued cold will bind the snow and ice longer, but will increase the ultimate flood danger. A gradual thaw is the only thing to ease the situation.

The snow blanket is deepest in southern Maine. Ten feet of snow has fallen during the winter. It measures ninety to 100 inches elsewhere in the northern tier of States.

The snow has been found, in measurements at Bellows Falls, Vt., to hold more water than in any year, of which there are records. Experts of the Bellows Falls Canal Co. measuring the snowfall on the banks of the Connecticut, forecast exceptionally high water.

Lowell reports that any sudden melting of river ice miles above the city will cause a rush of high water and dangerous freshets.

Concord, N. H., has reports from railroad men expressing fear if extended rains come.

Six inches more of snow at Bellows Falls, Vt., has brought the winter total to ninety-six inches with an average of three and one-half feet remaining on the ground. Railroad and town officials are anxiously watching for the break-up of ice in the Connecticut river. There are two special danger spots. Rails in the railroad tunnel are only nineteen feet above the river dam. Fear is felt, too, for the long steel arch bridge between Bellows Falls and North Walpole, N. H.

WORCESTER GIRL WINS $750 BALM

Pittsburgh, March 13.—Damages of $750 were awarded Lillian F. Barber of Worcester by a Common Pleas Court jury today in her breach of promise suit against William R. Coley, an attorney. She sued for $25,000. Miss Barber testified that for nine years she waited for Attorney Coley, but that finally he married another.

If You're Peeved at the Snow, Think of Portland

Kicking about the snow?

How would you like to be in Portland, Me.?

Correspondent wires that four-and-one-half-inch fall just ended raised the Winter's total to 117 inches, which is four inches under the record of 1886-87.

The correspondent quotes the figures as official.

DISPUTE IDENTITY OF KLAN VICTIMS

By International News Service.

Bastrop, La., March 13.—Attack on the identification of the two mangled bodies found floating in Lake Lafourche last December, around which the State of Louisiana built its investigation of hooded mob outrages in Morehouse Parish, was launched here today by Captain J. K. Skipwith, Exalted Cyclops of the Morehouse Ku Klux Klan.

Captain Skipwith branded as a "monstrous frame-up" the State's identification of the bodies as those of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richards, the supposed victims of the kidnaping-murder.

On the heels of the Klan chieftain's statement, it was learned that J. L. Daniel, father of the mob victim, had received a message purporting to come from his missing son. While admitting he had received the message, the elder Daniel denied that it was in his son's handwriting.

The message signed "Watt," was written in pencil across the top of a Texas newspaper containing an account of the State's investigation of the Morehouse murders. It had been mailed from Oklahoma. It read:

"Dear dad—I am safe and alright. Will be home soon. Watt."

NURSE TRIED TO RECONCILE CREELEYS

In Middlesex Probate Court today the hearing on the petition of Dr. Edward R. Utley to be made permanent guardian of and conservator of the estate of Dr. Thomas L. Creeley, who is confined at the Symmes Hospital in Arlington and has been adjudged incompetent, was concluded.

Attorney Ralph Willard, counsel for Anna Taylor, who is leading the opposition to Dr. Utley's petition, argued that the latter was a willing tool of Dr. Oscar Creeley, son of the elder Creeley, and with whom his father had been estranged for many years.

He asserted Dr. Utley was an unfit person for the administration of the incompetent man's affairs, by reason of his not being a disinterested person.

James H. Vahey, attorney for Dr. Utley, argued that Taylor and the others who are opposing the Utley petition and who call themselves "lifelong friends of Dr. Creeley," left the sick man in filth and squalor, while Dr. Utley induced his son and sister to visit him after years of estrangement.

WOOD PULP INCREASE 17 P. C. OVER 1921

Washington, March 13.—The wood pulp production of 172 mills producing about 72 per cent. of the total output of the country, increased from 2,062,773 tons in 1921 to 2,427,530 tons in 1922, according to figures announced today by the Department of Commerce. It was estimated that the total production last year would be shown to exceed that of the year 1921 by about 17 per cent.

FLOAT TO DEATH ON ICE SINGING CHURCH HYMN

By the Associated Press.

Omaha, Neb., March 13.—Floating on an ice cake in the Missouri river to certain death, with the banks lined by friends and relatives unable to avert the tragedy, two Iowa men chose as their farewell message the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

For hours Harvey McIntosh, thirty, and his brother, Tom, twenty-six, of Mondamin, Iowa, had been marooned on a sandbar in the river, thirty miles north of Omaha after a sudden rise of the river swept away their boat, while they were hunting ducks.

Their cries brought many persons to the banks but all attempts to send aid failed. Finally the crest of the flood rose to the men's armpits.

"We have caught an ice cake," they shouted to those on shore and then, out of the darkness, came the strains of the hymn.

TO CHRISTEN ROYAL BABY IN YORKSHIRE

London, March 13.—Vicount Lascelles has finally been allowed to have a say in regard to his son and heir. It was his wish that the baby should be born in Yorkshire, his ancestral home, but Princess Mary preferred London, and here the youngster made his entry into the world.

For the chirstening, nearly everyone deemed the chapel in St. James' palace the most likely. But the proud father insisted on Yorkshire, and he will have his way. Little Harry will be baptized in St. Mary's Church, Goldsborought, one of the prettiest village churches in the North, and the King and Queen will be there in all the glory of royal grandparentage.

'FOLLIES' AT SHUBERT ARE GORGEOUS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

THAT special design of Follies, originally from Greenwich Village, but which in more recent days has found a life of ease and prosperity further up Broadway, moved into the Tremont street region at the Shubert last evening, bringing something of a [illegible] diversion that may prove a shock to the faithful.

Candor, however, compels the admission that Greenwich Village isn't what it used to be. Reformation appears to have taken a hand in things and it was indeed a sharp and practiced eye that could have discovered an undressed calf or dimpled knee in the entire three hours of music, mirth and gorgeous colors that make up this newest appeal to your senses.

ARTISTIC ENTERTAINMENT.

As an entertainment, however, the "Greenwich Village Follies" continues t serve its wares in full portions, unquestionably in more artistic form—revealing more character and less anatomy.

This was a satisfactory arrangement on the whole, for there were high spots in the program that will linger with you in pleasant memory for some time to come. The producers call this particular model of the Follies a "revusical comedy," which is about as near as anyone can possibly reach in an effort of general description. But it was not a revue, which in the face of the returns, left no regrets. Instead you found entertainment fit for any member of the family.

SURPRISES IN PLENTY.

Picking the high lights of the evening imposed no difficulties—you coldn't miss them. In fact, they hopped straight across the your lap. Mentioned briefly, they were John E. Hazzard, Carl Randall, Ula Sharon, Frankie Heath, Fortunello and Cirillo, Lucille Chalfant and Savoy and Brennan. This formidable array of talent moved from scene to scene, spreading surprises at every step. Miss Shannon, a picture of grace and agility, caught every eye with her marvelous dances; Jack Hazzard, in his "old song" number, nearly stopped the show; and Savoy and Brennan presented a convincing demonstration that "old stuff" will put an audience in hysterics just as quickly and more effectively than gags that are new.

Out of a maze of comedy, burlesque and farce, Miss Chalfant lifted a voice of exquisite purity, and she smiled at you from atop the prettiest shoulders that have decorated the local stage this season.

COSTUMING GLORIOUS.

Behind all the jazz and slapstick comedy, the dancing and brilliantly staged song numbers, was an idea in scenic embellishment that sets the Greenwich Village folk quite apart from any others we have seen in musical revue.

ITALIAN PRINCESS TO MARRY IN APRIL

Rome, March 13.—The correspondent of Universo, at Milan, has informed his paper that the marriage of the Princess Yolanda has been set for April. Premier Mussolini, who will act as the royal notary at the ceremony, has been nominated by the King as "Chevalier D'Annunziata and cousin of the King."

Princess Yolanda

The visit of the Papal Vicar Cardinal Pompili to the Royal Commissary in Rome indicates a growing cordiality between the Vatican and the civil authorities.

"PASSERS BY" GIVEN AT THE SOMERVILLE

Romance, comedy and sentiment are skilfully blended in "Passers By," which won appreciation yesterday at the Somerville Theatre, where the play is being revived by Mr. McArdle's players. "Passers By" is from the novel written by C. Haddan Chambers. The leading roles were interpreted by Harry Pond, Ann Hamilton and Frank Thomas. Philip Sheffield returned to the cast this week and was given a hearty reception. Mrs. George A. Hibbard, Rose Mary Hilton and Joseph Granby also did good work.

NEW MELODRAMA AT THE WILBUR

"It Is the Law," a new play by Elmer E. Rice, began its local engagement at the Wilbur last evening. The play is frankly of melodramatic type, with crime and its solution the main theme. "It Is the Law" is presented by the New York company, which includes Rose Burdick, Agnes Martin, A. H. Van Buren, Ralph Kellard, Arthur Hohl, William Indersol and Alexander Onslow. The play will be reviewed in tomorrow's American.

Week's Features

MODERN AND BEACON — Sir Hall Caine's "The Christian" and Charles Jones in "The Footlight Ranger." News and comedy reels.

OLYMPIA—"Minnie," with Leatrice Joy and Matt Moore. Also five acts of vaudeville and news and comedy reels.

CENTRAL SQ.—"The Little Church Around the Corner," with Claire Windsor, and Al St. John in "Out of Place." Five acts of vaudeville.

LANCASTER — "Hungry Hearts" and Betty Blythe in "How Women Love." Also news and comedy reels. Bill changes on Thursday.

FRANKLIN PARK—Bert Lytell in "Kick In." Also vaudeville and news and comedy reels.

STRAND — Douglas McLean in "The Hottentot." Also news and comedy reels.

BOSTON—Priscilla Dean in "The Flame of Life." Six acts of vaudeville, headed by Fink's Mules. News and comedy reels.

CAPITOL—Second week of Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood." Also news and comedy reels and organ recitals.

CODMAN SQ.—Mae Murray in "Jazzmania," and a new Christie comedy, "The Chased Bride." Also a news reel.

LIVELY BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

"All the Brothers Were Valiant," an absorbing drama of the sea, pictured from the story by Ben Ames Williams, thrilled hundreds of motion picture fans that visited Loew's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. The story concerns a famous sea family. One son is gentle and peace loving, the other a hardened captain of a whaling ship. The leading roles are capably enacted by Lon Chaney and Billie Dove.

The vaudeville for this week is headlined by "The Old Timers," including such well remembered veterans of the stage as Josephine Sabel, Andy Gardner, Dan Barrett, West and Van Sielen and Rube Wallman presenting an interesting skit entitled "Memoirs of By Gone Days." Others are Worsley and Hillyer, in hilarious character nonsensicalities, and the "Dancing Roots," who were recently seen here in the Orpheum Frolics. There were several other vaudeville features.

JOE MARKS IN GAYETY SHOW

With Joe Marks as leading comedian and one of the "girliest" choruses that ever pranced as a special attraction, "Youthful Follies" played itself right into the hearts of matinee and evening audiences at the Gayety Theatre yesterday. The title of the main feature of the show is "Laugh and Forget," and the principals and show girls alike exerted themselves with marked success to make the audiences live up to the title.

Joe Marks, young but clever, provoked continuous laughter with his endless fun, quips and jokes. He was ably assisted by Eddie Cole of the men, also by May Leonard. The Apache dance by Cole and Leonard shows even new vagaries on that style of stepping. The song specialties of Kitty Garner, Helen Lloyd, the lively soubrette; and Hazel Alger, leading woman, were finely done. "Happy Bill" Smith, the eccentric comedian and parodist, contributed much to the program.

MOSCOW THEATRE SHOW POSTPONED

The Moscow Art Theatre will not come to the Boston Opera House on April 2, according to an announcement by Morris Gest, who is responsible for the American tour of these players. It is said that the Russians have refused to play at the Opera House here and the Auditorium in Chicago, but no reason is given. Instead, the local engagement will take place in the Majestic Theatre, beginning Monday, May 7, and will continue for two weeks, instead of one, as originally planned.

MAY YOHE TOPS GOOD BILL AT KEITH'S

May Yohe, famous a generation ago as a musical comedy star, the pet of royalty and formerly Lady Francis Hope, owner of the fated "Hope Diamond," tops a pleasing bill at Keith's this week. Age and troubles that accompany ownership of the famous jem have left undeniable traces on the former favorite, but she sang several of her old time successes to a house that seemed to appreciate her.

She has a ten-piece jazz band, an Italian soloist and a darky dancer with her that help greatly to put the act over. Among old time favorites she used were: "That Old Girl of Mine," "If I Were Only You" and "In Dear Old Georgia."

Dave Seed and Ralph Austin in "Things and Stuff" easily provided the most merriment of the show. Seed is a diminutive comedian of versified and extraordinary ability and his antics converted the act into a riot.

Donald Kerr and Effie Weston, the latter a Boston girl, were well received. They have a clever dancing and singing act. They were assisted by Lou Handman, a new songwriter, who showed several of his latest offerings.

Other acts on the bill were: Rialto and Lamont, "The Talkless Boys"; Martha Pryor and Bob Geraghty; Danny Duggan, Madelyn Meredith and Freddie Sanborn; Jones and Jones; Claude and Marion, and the Diaz Sisters and Powell.

"LET'S GO" NEW SHOW AT CASINO

"Let's Go," which opened at Waldron's Casino yesterday, is a fountain of burlesque that overflows with youth and beauty, melody and mirth, dancing and diversions. Vaudeville and moving pictures complete the three-in-one continuous program. The featured principals in "Let's Go" are at the top of their classes. Marty Collins brought new methods of merrymaking to his task as leading comedian. His right bower, Jack Pillard, traveled right along with him in keeping the laughs billowing and booming. Mae Janese, comedienne, is both pretty and talented, and deserves the honors that come to her in leading the large and handsome delegation of girls. Julia Gifford, a vivacious beauty, led in singing "Vamped by an Eskimo Girl," in alluring manner. The mysterious "Girl in the Mask" contributed a solo specialty of much charm. Her dancing is of the Oriental type but refined.

DEAN LORD ON TOUR OF HIGH SCHOOLS

The Boston Chamber of Commerce is sending Dean Everett W. Lord of the College of Business Administration of Boston University to Norwich University next Friday to address the students on the subject of Foreign Trade." Dean Lord was also to speak at Fitchburg and Winchendon High Schools and at Cushing Academy, Ashburnham, today. He will speak at Keene, N. H., and Bellows Falls, Vt., tomorrow and at White River Junction High School and Montpelier Seminary the following day.

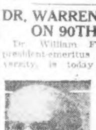
DR. WARREN ACTIVE ON 90TH BIRTHDAY

Dr. William Fairfield Warren, president-emeritus of Boston University, is today celebrating his ninetieth birthday in the best of health. He has long been known as one of the foremost educators of New England. He was first president of Boston University from 1873 to 1903.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Warren is passing his ninetieth milestone, he is keen and active in mind as in earlier days, in vital touch with the life of the university and his other varied interests.



Dr. W. F. Warren.

COURTENAY HERE IN NEW COMEDY

William Courtenay in "Her Temporary Husband" moved into the Arlington last evening and brought that playhouse back into the company of theatres playing first class attractions. "Her Temporary Husband" is a comedy by Edward A. Paulton and has had runs in New York and Chicago. In the cast with Mr. Courtenay are Virginia Hammond, George Parsons, Henry Mortimer, Jack Paulton and Betty Linley. The play will be reviewed in Thursday's American.

'SPITE CORNER' PRESENTED AT ST. JAMES

After two weeks of "deep" plays, the Boston Stock Company returned to a rural comedy, "Spite Corner." Once more Adelyn Bushnell and Walter Gilbert were given opportunity of facing each other as the sweethearts of the play.

The usual country figures appeared in this play, but there was a delightful romance that could not be effaced by mere "hayseed" activities. Miss Bushnell, as the storekeeper of a small country shop, who is struggling to keep abreast of conditions, finds herself, through competition, close to the closing point.

Then Mr. Gilbert, her sweetheart, comes to her aid. A fire in the store brings matters to a climax, and this scene is the strong point of the play.

TODAY

would make all other wars seem as nothing.

MORE INTERESTING to many readers than ice age or European politics is the story of Manuel Silva, who built a tomb in which to bury his wife, daughter, and wife's mother—after killing them. The tomb was built of concrete, below his cellar floor, with stone steps leading down. The plan was to block up the entrance with cement, the murderer to leave the country, knowing his secret safe. He killed the wife and her mother, the daughter escaped. Few murderers, it is believed, make all arrangements perfectly. Many betray themselves by their elaborate plans. However, of the successful plans, the public hears nothing.

YOU MAY learn much about heaven, and the other place, by listening to the Rev. Mr. Owen from England. There isn't exactly any real hell, the Rev. Owen says. But the wicked suffer spiritual anguish, suicides especially, "for interfering with the plans of God." You wonder how it is possible to interfere with the plans of an omnipotent being, why He allows it.

THE REV. OWEN, it seems, has personally visited the "various spheres of heaven," like Mohammed and several others. He found animals there, dogs and horses, all happy, but some children very unhappy. Another puzzle.

"There they build roads by will power, and build them of light, strong enough for men and horses to walk upon them."

On earth we also build "by will power," although not roads of light. Will power in man's brain, and thought power, create the machines that build roads. The one important thing is will. See Schopenhauer's chief work.

UNDER "GOVERNMENT supervision for the protection of the public in the coal crisis," mine owners have been shipping and selling as fuel old rubbish dumps that have been piling up near the mines for years, made of slate and dust, utterly worthless. If you have wondered what sort of coal you were getting, now you know. And you were ordered to use such "substitute."

Nothing ever was managed worse for the public, or better for mine owners and coal sharks generally, than that "supervision," and it would cost the Republican party many a vote at the next election, if the people could remember anything for 18 months. But they cannot. Baseball, next Spring, fashions, the Dempsey fight, etc., will distract their memory. The late Tom Watson of Georgia said: "Only one thing you need remember, in public life and public speaking, namely, that it is impossible to exaggerate the stupidity of the public."

MELROSE PARISH BOYS IN DRAMA

"Peg O' My Heart" will be given by members of St. Mary's parish of Melrose in Memorial Hall, March 17. The proceeds of the evening are to be donated to the Catholic Boys' Brigade under the supervision of Rev. P. J. Flaherty. The boys of the brigade hold an option on a camp for the Summer and there is no doubt that it will be secured after March 17.

Plays That Remain

SELWYN—"The Fool," a play with the Golden Rule as a background and a full measure of good drama besides.

MAJESTIC—Gertrude Hoffmann in "Hello Everybody." One of those musical revues made up dancing and girls. The last week.

HOLLIS—"Lightnin'," a sweet scented rural comedy that fills an evening with laughs and tears.

COLONIAL—Ed Wynn in "The Perfect Fool." Principally Ed Wynn himself, with a dash of color and some girls thrown in.

TREMONT—Otis Skinner in "Mister Antonio." A Booth Tarkington play that shows one phase of small-town life. The last week.

PLYMOUTH—"Just Married," with Vivian Martin and Lynne Overman. Now on third happy month, as the press agent says.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Third Alarm," a picture play with firemen as heroes and a retired fire horse in a principal role.

CAST SELECTED FOR B. U. SHOW APRIL 18

Miss Helen Clark of Meriden, Conn., will play the ingenue role in the 1922 Boston University show, "My Juliet," Wednesday, April 18, at the Boston Opera House. This will be an event of junior week. Robert G. Hess of Leominster is general chairman of the junior committee.

Helen Brigham

Miss Roberta Ely of Boston, who has been studying dramatic art under Henry Jewett, will be the leading lady.

The other principal characters will be William R. Pelkus of Dorchester, Helen Brigham of Leominster, Pauline Sawyer of Melrose, Orrin W. Emerson of Everett, Daniel J. O'Connor of East Boston, Sterling W. Greene of Watertown and John G. Hardy of Newton.

BIRTHDAY WEEK OBSERVED AT LOEW'S STATE

This is anniversary week at Loew's State Theatre, where the occasion is being celebrated with a special program. It is just a year ago that the doors of this theatre were opened to the public and since that time the State has been one of the most popular of the local picture houses. Two interesting photo productions were shown yesterday, one of which, "Where the Pavement Ends," with Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro enacting the leading roles, is a stirring, thrilling and compelling photoplay. The other photoplay, which served as a contrast, was Jack Holt in "Nobody's Money." This production, adapted from the stage success, shows Jack Holt in a radical departure from his general run of characterizations. Wanda Hawley gave complete satisfaction as the heroine.

As an added attraction, Manager Brennan has especially engaged for this week the services of Marjorie Moody, a coloratura soprano, well known in New England musical circles. Miss Moody was heard in popular and classical songs. A comedy and Pathe News made up the remainder of the program.

STATE BALLROOM IS HOME OF THE DANCE

Those who desire the best in dance compelling music will find complete satisfaction at the State Theatre Ballroom. Manager "Art" Spaulding provides ample comfort for his generous clientele, the place containing every modern facility, including spacious rest rooms and a mezzanine floor for promenade, and a Japanese garden with exotic atmosphere, where refreshments may be obtained. Lambert brothers, assisted by a dozen skilled musicians, supply the music, which is made up of popular dance compositions.

Lost Girl Writes She Is Bride

GERTRUDE MULROY.

A letter received by the parents of eighteen-year-old Gertrude Mulroy, who disappeared from her home in South Boston, January 31, informed them that she is married.

The letter was posted in Boston and was written by the girl herself. It merely gave the information that she was married and safe. Nothing was said as to her whereabouts or concerning the identity of her husband. The parents are as much in the dark on that score as before.

The girl lived at No. 251 Broadway.

UKRAINIANS GIVE LAST CONCERT

By ZOE FABER.

The last of the two scheduled concerts of this season by the Ukrainian Chorus took place last night at Symphony Hall under the exceptionally able direction of Alexander Koshetz. The assisting artists were Mlle. Oda Slobodskaja and Mme. Nina Koshetz.

Alexander Koshetz is a conductor of remarkable force, as was shown in song after song. He has, it is true, very splendid average of voices from which to get his effects—but the point is, that he gets them. Many another with the same material would fail where he succeeds so greatly.

The songs of the chorus ran the gauntlet of the emotions of joy and sorrow. The audience was very enthusiastic, no matter what the song.

Coming Plays

"The Torch Bearers" is announced as the attraction at the Tremont, beginning next Monday.

"The Fascinating Widow" will be presented at the Somerville Theatre next week, with Tommie Martelle as the "widow."

"The Merry Widow," as revived by Henry W. Savage, will come to the Colonial on Monday, April 2.

Rose's Royal Midgets, a company of talented Lilliputians, will be the headline feature at Loew's Orpheum during the week of March 25.

"Spice of 1922," one of the Winter Garden productions that was seen here earlier in the season at the Boston Opera House, will be the attraction at the Majestic next week, beginning Monday evening.

MOTOR NEWS AND NOTES

FOX AIR-COOLED CAR IN FINE PERFORMANCE

By C. F. DONNOCKER

A year ago when the Fox air-cooled car came to Boston and was exhibited at the auto show, it attracted a great deal of attention, just as it had at the shows in New York and elsewhere. This year the car is here with added refinements and is ready to make its bow to New England. George Dunham, for many years connected with the Standard Eight, has taken the distribution for this territory.

The writer took a "demonstration" in the Fox yesterday, or rather he drove the car through slush, snow, ice and over rough roads, up hills and down slippery inclines. It gave a remarkable performance.

The "pick up" and extreme flexibility of the motor, coupled with the easy riding qualities of the 132-inch wheelbase and wonderfully resilient springs, made the rough spots a negligible consideration.

A very noticeable thing about this motor, which also shows its correct design, is the fact that the motor can be used as a brake to the extreme degree, and as far as quietness goes, it simply can't be heard.

The lines are those of cars costing much more money and from looks it cannot be told from the stereotype water-cooled design. It is a beautiful car, full-powered, flexible and is destined to make a reputation for itself in a country where air-cooled cars are well known.

HOLDUP 'OUTFITS' FOR GUNMEN

New York, March 13.—Complete holdup outfits are being offered to customers by a gun supply company operating in Chinatown, two amateur holdup men told the police after their arrest today.

The men, John Leonard and C. Ferrero, according to the police, said they had been approached by an agent of the company, who said he heard they were out of work. He pointed out the advantages of using his company's holdup outfit, which, he asserted, was complete in every detail, including choice of a pistol or revolver.

TURKS RESTRICT U. S. WARSHIPS

Washington, March 13.—Orders issued by the Turkish Nationalist government restricting foreign naval craft in Smyrna harbor have been modified to permit the presence there of two American naval ships at the same time providing one does not remain more than a few hours.

The modification was agreed to, the State department was advised today, to permit the destroyers stationed in the harbor to receive mail brought in by a sister ship.

The Turkish orders originally were intended to prevent more than one foreign craft from anchoring in the harbor at a time. The cable message revealed that the Turks have applied the modified order to American craft, although they represent a neutral power.

Chicago—A temporary injunction restraining Charles C. Fitzmorris, chief of police from stationing policemen at the entrance of the Hotel Astor, granted by Judge Dennis E. Sullivan.

Quebec—Mrs. Placide Lassard of St. Joseph and her young child, and Miss Alberta Roy of St. Marie, were burned to death in two coaches of a Sherwood-Quebec train which rolled down a steep embankment, then caught fire.

Cleveland—The proposed merger of the Nickel Plate railroad with Clover Leaf, the Laake Erie & Western, the Chicago & State Line and the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati & Louisville was ratified by the stockholders of the Nickel Plate.

Lincoln, Neb.—Fire of unknown origin started in a glass and paint store here today, swept through the hotel adjacent and damaged the entire block. The loss was $200,000.

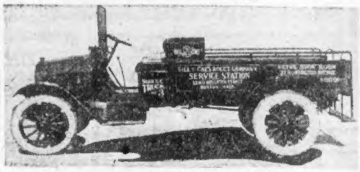
"AMBULANCE" TRUCK FOR CHEVROLET CARS



IN SILLS-CHEVROLET SERVICE

SERVICE FLEET OF CHEVROLET UP TO DATE

Three of the "ambulances," or service trucks, shown herewith have been added to the service fleet operated by the Sills-Chevrolet Company, one for the service station at No. 1249 Boylston street, Boston, another for the Portland station at York and Danforth streets, and the third for the Providence service station of this company at No. 45 Lester street.

This move is in keeping with the progressive policy of the Sills-Chevrolet Company to render majimum service at minimum cost. Engineers have pronounced the Sills-Chevrolet Company's service station in Boston one of the finest, if not the finest, of Chevrolet service stations in America.

GRAY AUTOMOBILE BUILT FOR ECONOMY

An indication of the light car is evidenced by the crowd which has filled the Gray booth at the Auto Show. Waldo Brown, New England distributor, assisted by Philip Plaistridge, the general manager have been kept on the go explaining the virtues of the "car with the economy record."

"While it is true we are flattered by the reception accorded the Gray car," said Mr. Brown, "we are not greatly surprised by it. The Gray car is built for the people. There is no other like it in its price class. It has the light weight that means economy, the advanced engineering that means comfort, convenience and durability, and the high quality of materials that means long life and dependable performance under any and all conditions.

"Given these factors at a price as low as ours, it is really not to be wondered at that our orders are way ahead of anything anticipated."

BRIDE TELLS SCHOOL MATES OF WEDDING

Dan Cupid has been busy in the Lynn Classical High School once again, and this time, Miss Evelyn Murray, a member of the senior class, and William E. Durgin, Jr., of Swampscott were the victims. They were married, it was learned today, at the Church of the Holy Name in Swampscott, December 23, by Rev. Edward Tillotson, pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray attended the couple.

W. E. Durgin, Jr.

The news of the secret marriage came as a complete surprise to the classmates of Mrs. Durgin, who told them at recess hour that she had been the bride of the Swampscott youth for more than two months.

SPRINGFIELD RADIO FAN IS INGENIOUS

A lightning protector that can be made out of a spark plug is one of the ingenious offerings in the wrinkle contest.

Mr. DeNarvarte, who contributes it, says that it is effective, for he has seen sparks during foggy weather in winter time. This it not, however, an approved protective device as required by the underwriters, so do not use it on a building which is insured. It should, however, be perfectly safe.

A spark plug is connected as shown, and a tin can, or funnel, is attached under the top nut as shown so that the arrestor will be protected from rain if it is used out of doors.

HOOVER READY FOR RUBBER EXPERIMENTS

Washington, March 13.—Investigation into the supply of three raw materials—rubber, nitrates and commercial fibres—will be embarked upon immediately by Secretary Hoover under authority granted the Commerce Department by the last Congress.

Staffs are being organized, Mr. Hoover said today, from the regular personnel of the department. It was suggested that inquiry might demonstrate the advisability of investigating the production of other raw commodities whose chief sources are outside the United States.

"Pick Your Prize" Radio Contest Continues

LYNN MOTHER RESCUES BABY FROM FIRE

Mrs. Ralph Y. Nason, who was deserted twice in three months last year by her husband, a Lynn automobile dealer, proved a heroine today by rushing through flame and smoke to rescue her three-months-old baby boy.

Mrs. Nason and her five children live at No. 25 Goldthwaite street. She was visiting an apartment on the lower floor when she smelled smoke.

Knowing her baby to be alone in the upper apartment, she ran upstairs and opened the door. The kitchen was filled with smoke and flame. Undaunted, the mother ran to where the baby lay in its crib. She then rushed out of the house, being nearly overcome by smoke before she reached safety.

Firemen extinguished the blaze, which started in a kitchen closet. The loss was about $500.

FAMOUS EASTER ISLAND SINKS

Papeete, Tahiti, Feb. 26. (Mail to the Associated Press)—Easter Island in the Pacific ocean, 2,300 miles off the coast of Chile, and famous for its ancient, gigantic statues, believed to have been the work of a prehistoric people, has disappeared, according to the captain of a French merchant ship.

The captain declares he was seeking to verify his position and tried to sight Easter Island, but found nothing but water where the island should have been.

It is pointed out by marine authorities, however, that observations of French skippers are not always accurate.

The only way of reaching the isolated bit of land is my way of Chile, to which republic it belongs. A Chilean government ship calls at the island about once every year.

Shortly after the disastrous Chilean earthquake last November a rumor was prevalent concerning the possibility of Easter Island having disappeared. Later the Chilean authorities characterized the report as groundless.

K. of C. Smoke Talk

Watertown Council No. 155, Knights of Columbus, will hold a smoke talk Thursday evening in Watertown Town Hall. Boxing, singing and vaudeville are on the program.

The Power of Public Opinion

No movement has ever succeeded—can ever succeed—without the backing of public opinion.

In the March Issue of MoToR is an article dealing with the formation of The Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation.

In standing squarely in back of this important movement, MoToR feels it can render a definite service to the ten million car owners who throng the highways of America.

The League bears the endorsement, among others, of President Harding, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the Governors of many States, mayors of cities and prominent individuals from all parts of the country.

Your interest as a car owner—as a prospective car owner, alone is necessary. The League has no dues—no fees.

And from the American public, from the millions who find delight and recreation in the broad highways that lead to the national parks, the State reservations, the public camping sites, the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation asks support.

Through its editorial pages, MoToR is glad to lend its influence in fostering a movement that will have such a wide and beneficent influence.

In succeeding issues of MoToR you will find the work of the League, its progress, the formation of the local chapters, etc., given wide publicity.

You as a motorist will find this story of definite interest.

Public opinion—the force behind any movement—is appealed to for hearty support.

The March issue of MoToR, with the League's story, is on sale at all newstands

Pledge of The Motorists' League

"I, as a member of the Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation, pledge myself to do what I can to preserve the countryside so that all may share in the enjoyment of it. To this end I will leave a resting place or camp site clean—free from papers or litter of any sort. I will be careful in making of camps and fires. I will make every effort to leave the roadside in such condition that the pleasure to be derived from it by others is not lessened through any careless act of mine."

Mail the coupon to the office of the Secretary. There is no obligation attached. You are urged to lend the force of your opinion to the furtherance of this movement and for the correction of a recognized abuse. Address

Secretary,
Motorists' League for Countryside Preservation,
119 W. 40th Street,
New York City.

Klan Offers $500 for Arrest in Threat to Catholic Church

Washington, March 13.—The Ku Klux Klan offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of any one involved in sending a threatening letter to a Catholic church here and signing it by the Klan.

Emphatic denial that the District of Columbia headquarters had anything to do with the missive sent to the rector of St. Martin's Church was made by F. Poindexter, Klan Kleagle.

Rheumatic Pain Goes Quick

Prescription Used 30 Years Works Fine

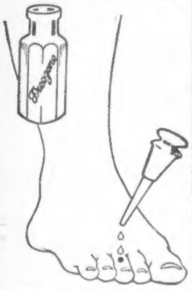
If you suffer from backache, twinges of pain in the legs, shoulders and arms or a Rheumatic ache anywhere, get from your druggist a prescription that comes in form of powders and is called Orangeine.

One or two powders will be enough to bring you restful relief and you will wonder why you fussed so long with "mussy" rubs and liniments. A great many people use this prescription to break up a cold and say it never fails if taken when you first get that chilly feeling.

ORANGEINE For Headaches

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers



Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Wyeth's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

USE MULSIFIED

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

PACKAGES KEPT DRY BY USING HANDY BAG

The proof of the popularity of Boston American Handy Bags is in the thousands that are seen about the streets. This is especially so on rainy, nasty days for Handy Bags keep packages dry.

A woman, who signs herself "Housewife," writes: "The Handy Bags are just the thing. There is nothing so distressing nor so inconvenient as wet bundles. Your Handy Bag keeps them dry and makes it so much easier to shop."

Being waterproof is but one of the many virtues of the Handy Bag. Everybody either has one or is getting one. Here's the way it is done. Clip coupons from the Boston American for three successive days. Then call at this office or at any of the stores listed herewith and pay thirty-three cents and get a bag.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How to Use Barbo Compound.

A well known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than forty years, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally by Drinking Jad Salts

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Old Coal Waste Is Sold for Top Price

STORIES OF BOSTON TOWN
By Jo Swerling

SOCIAL NOTE: Mrs. Anna M. Davis is entertaining Mr. James Manning of Leavenworth at her palatial Brookline home. Object, Revolution.

BOSTON'S SOCIAL REVOLUTION

Hail, the Social Revolution!

It has come to Boston at last. There is no commune marking Brahmins for death.

Professor Guillotine has not yet established headquarters in Boston Common. No tumbrils go clattering down Beacon street, bearing pale-faced aristocrats to the slaughter.

But the revolution is on. It is being fought in the drawing rooms of the elite. The deep-browed erstwhile enemies of radicalism have suffered a change of heart. They are marshalling statistics, tossing explosive epigrams, fighting the social revolutions over the teacups.

The sab-cats no longer foregather in dingy homes. The palatial residences of the wealthy are becoming meeting places for the extremists. One is tempted to paraphrase Gilbert and Sullivan and query:

Is it weakness of intellect, Madam,
[illegible]
Or a [illegible] whom in your little inside?

But it's neither. It is merely another manifestation of what before the war was termed (and now that Germany is the under-dog may again by termed) the zeitgeist. It is the cosmic protest against years of curbing of thought and speech and expression of ideas. Boston is running amuck. It is waving the intellectual kris, decapitating conservative bogies right and left.

Leavenworth Grad Visits Brookline

The social password in Boston is no longer "Did your ancestors come over on the Mayflower?" The countersign is now, "How radical are you?" The days of Longfellow, Whittier and Holmes are passing. It is the day of Amy Lowell and Elliot Paul. The squareheads are making way for the cubists. And Mrs. Anna M Davis of Edge Hill road, Brookline, has thrown her palatial home open to James Manning.

There's a social item for you—Mrs. Anna M. Davis entertaining James Manning. James Manning ex-lumberman, ex-sailor, ex reporter, labor agitator, whose last place of residence was at Leavenworth, a guest of the government for his radical political views.

And it's not that Manning has reformed and is hitting the conservative trail. Quite the contrary. He is here to convert Boston Brahmins to his own political and industrial philosophy. And he is getting away with it.

"Lousy I. W. W.'s" is what they used to be called. Now it's "Brilliant thinkers imprisoned for their fidelity to the cause of freedom." That's the way Mrs. Davis terms it. Manning is here pleading for the release of fifty-two fellow prisoners at Leavenworth. They flock to hear his speeches. Today he speaks to the [illegible] conservatives at Mrs. Davis' home. Thursday he addresses a meeting at the home of Mrs. Leonora Loveman at Cambridge.

Noted Bostonians Listen to Words

Noted Boston men and women listen to him respectfully. Such folks as John Graham Brooks, president of the Twentieth Century Club, Rev. Christopher R. Eliot, Marion E. Park, dean of Radcliffe; Sara H. Stites, dean of Simmons College; Cerise C. Jack, Elizabeth Glendower Evans, Alice Stone Blackwell, Sarah W. Hallowell, George W. Coleman, president of Babson Institute, Sidney Lovett, pastor of the Mount Vernon Church—these and many others hang on the words of Ex Convict Manning.

Manning's visit to Mrs. Davis' home is not a week-end affair. He is there to stay as long as he wishes to stay. It's his home, Mrs. Davis stoutly maintains. For she entertains not an individual, but a disciple.

"We are fighting," says Mrs. Davis with as much vehemence as Emma Goldman ever put into a tirade, "for the freedom of speech, a free press, the right of labor to strike, the right of public meetings, and racial and social equality."

It is a revolt of intellectual flappers being staged in Boston. The gunpowder is primed. It needs only a spark to cause the sound heard round the world. Nothing is impossible. There remains only one detail—a public mass meeting in behalf of the political prisoners at Leavenworth.

The Cabots are speaking to the Murphys. The Lowells talk to the Smiths.

Do you hear that tiny echo of a golden horn? It is Gabriel. The millenium is upon us.

PHYSICIANS PUZZLED OVER DEATH OF GIRL

Fitchburg, March 13.—Physicians are baffled over the disease which took the life of five-year-old Claire Lizotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lizotte of No. 207 Clarendon street and which has afflicted Dolores LaFluer, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LaFluer of No. 217 Clarendon street. Both children were in good health when they went to mass Sunday. They were stricken shortly after returning home. Both had convulsions. The disease has some symptoms of meningitis.

TRUCK HITS BUILDING, BUT AVOIDS CRASH

William F. Sullivan of No. 87 First street, Medford drove a heavy truck through a window of the Little building early today to avoid collision with a United States mail truck.

Sullivan and his helper, Irving Beeman, were going south at Tremont and Boylston streets when the mail truck, going in the opposite directions, loomed up. Both men escaped injury.

HER MOTHER TAKES HER BACK HOME

And the Man Found With Her Avoids All Penalties of Escapade

The woman pays, and [illegible] pays.

A young man is found in the dormitory of one of the girl students. They are arrested and taken to court. She is compelled to [illegible] al name and address. She is reprimanded by the court. Vulgar court fans leer at her and stare admiringly at the young man, who gives a fake name and address. The girl is censured by the court. She is placed on probation for a year. The young man is given a month's suspended sentence.

Then the girl—she is pretty eighteen-year-old Mildred Alice Stevens of Franklin, N. H.—is hauled up before the school faculty. She is again put on the gridiron. More scolding. More condemnation. More exposure to the public's vulgar gaze. And then she is expelled from the college.

But the youth—the only thing he lost was his derby hat, which was found in Mildred's room and constituted evidence of misconduct in the eyes of the faculty. The name he gave — Charles A. Jackson of No. 30 Huntington avenue — is believed not to be his name at all. His real identity is the subject today of busy gossip among the girl students of the college. They're all sorry for Mildred, but they would like to know who the man really was.

Whose Derby?

Recently, reports of a thief in the dormitory had been made to Dean T. Lawrence Davis. A burglar trap was set. The dean waited in the college near the dormitory in which is housed a variety of girls of tender ages and experiences, to protect them from a possible prowler.

"Our trap was sprung shortly after one o'clock Sunday morning," the dean said. "I had remained at the college to direct the search upon the ringing of the alarm. Leaving one guard in front and another in the rear of the dormitory, an officer and I entered the basement of the building and searched every corner in which a would be thief might conceal himself. It seemed that the intruder had fled.

"At this moment, as Miss Stevens' door was not locked, the matron opened it in order to ask the girl if she had heard a noise. The girl was fidgety. The matron [illegible] but I was not satisfied. So the officer, the matron and I entered the room. We found Miss Stevens wearing a fur coat.

"Suspicious, they thought. The room was carefully surveyed and there was the incriminating derby."

"Who owns the derby?" the searchers demanded.

Mildred and "Charles" were marched to Station 16. Today, Mildred was escorted to Franklin, N. H., by her mother. The college officials were deaf to the mother's plea for retention.

VICTIM IDENTIFIES SUSPECTS ON STREET

Thomas McLaughlin and Joseph Walsh of Brighton were arrested today as the two men who held up Samuel Kolow in his store at No. 153 Pearl street, Cambridge, recently, and robbed him of $85 cash and a $125 diamond ring. Kolow, who was on his way to Brighton [illegible] tion to look at a suspect previously taken, witnessed the arrest of McLaughlin and Walsh by Special Officers Brown and Florentine and identified them as the right men.

CONSUMERS ROBBED BY DEALERS

Miners Get Real Anthracite Figures for Millions of Tons of Rubbish

The Boston American presents to [illegible] Report No. 2, dealing with the astounding conditions uncovered by investigators regarding the marketing of culm, containing slate rock, dirt and other mine refuse, as high priced fuel from the anthracite region centering about Hazleton Pa. It abounds with further startling facts concerning what the Coal Barons have foisted on the public.

Hazleton, Pa., March 13.—First hand investigation in the anthracite region discloses that, in addition to a comparatively small percentage of downright "bootleg coal" [illegible] culm, which has been [illegible] ng out of Pennsylvania "as is," the [illegible] of which cannot be fairly [illegible] bed to the big operators, there is now being shipped daily to market thousands [illegible] tons of prime washed and sorted culm.

This waste has been on the dum[illegible] for ten to ninety years. Piles hereabouts containing countless millions of tons are being worked with steam shovels. The culm is shoveled into mine cars, taken to breakers and washeries owned by the collieries and, after being sorted and washed, it is usually mixed with new coal, reloaded onto railroad gondolas and shipped to the clamoring markets.

The essential facts [illegible] as far as the consuming public [illegible] concerned are:

NO DISTINCTION MADE.

That when mixed with new coal, as is frequently the case, it is sold as fresh mined, highest grade coal without distinction by the big [illegible] ing companies that are taking [illegible] out.

It is inferior, because, still containing a considerable percentage of impurities and unburnable refuse even after being worked over, it is always likely to contain a commercially unethical amount of dirt and slate. Even its genuine anthracite percentage is declared by miners to have suffered a loss of carbon after being exposed to the elements for many years.

COST AS LOW AS $1.

While full price is exacted for a large percentage of it, and it profits the railroads hauling it just as much as freshly mined coal, its cost to the mining companies is comparatively negligible. Ready to ship to market according to competent authorities, its handling may cost from $1 to $1.25 a ton. The public does not get the benefit of the lowered cost.

In the marketing of ancient culm the coal companies have no doubt been actuated by "efficiency" in mining engineering and the urge of what is termed "good measure," but they have not passed on a fair share of the profits of selling culm banks in lowered costs to the public. They have not sold the stuff for what it is.

BANNED BY BAY STATE.

That immense quantities of culm have been shipped and sold at high prices without giving the public the benefit of a reduction in price is indisputable.

Mining [illegible] way of [illegible] Shamokin district. Here [illegible] Coal Barons later load onto rai[illegible] [illegible] banks, the Barons are bewailing the car shortage. This method costs [illegible] a per ton to land the culm masses at the breakers and washeries [illegible] washed out and put on the railroad cars ready for shipment to the market [illegible] never more than $2.50 a ton. There is sworn testimony that it cos[illegible] mined coal on the railroads. Figure for yourself the enormous profit to [illegible] Millions upon millions of tons of culm bank "coal" have been sold to the public. This bank is estimated [illegible] tained 4,000,000 tons of culm.

The C. M. Dodson Company, with mines at Beaver Brook and Locust Mountain, Pa., and headquarters at Bethlehem, Pa., have been listed by the Massachusetts Fuel Administration as profiteers. The Dodson Company is selling principally culm bank coal and stripping coal. The latter is coal mined off the surface of the ground and taken off by steam shovel methods such as those employed in removing the culm and waste banks. The Dodsons are accused of exacting as high as $12 and $13 a ton from wholesale purchasers.

At Beaver Brook, not far from here, the Dodsons are providing [illegible] per cent. of bank coal to 40 per cent of fresh mined coal, according to men working there.

$2,000 DAILY PROFIT.

At the mines of the Cranberry Creek Mining Company, highest dividend payer of the subsidiaries of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, one may see a great steam shovel loading from culm banks train after train. This steam shovel will load into cars twenty-five tons of culm in about five minutes.

The shovel has a boss and seven men, which cost the Cranberry management $40 a day in wages. They easily cut into the vast culm bank above them. What they handle after being washed, sorted and loaded into gondolas amounts to 400 tons a day.

The total handling cost of that 400 tons to the company is probably around $400, possibly $4[illegible]. The different sizes sell for different prices, of course, but striking an average of say $5 a ton, it is receiving $2,000 for it, a rather tidy profit, all things considered, as business goes today [illegible] is a wonderful industry.

BRINGS TOP PRICE.

The biggest coal companies in the anthracite industry are shipping [illegible] culm from their an[illegible] dumps of waste and in addition the independents so-called, from the largest to the smallest, where they are fortunate enough to possess culm heaps, or are able to lease them on royalty, are unloading their culm product on the public at a feverish pace.

Culm is selling in the American coal markets as fast as it can be taken out. It was paid for by the brawn and power of men who gave their best years for it. Wages of men who mined it were docked. It now sells for the best prices anthracite of any quality has ever brought.

There are piles in the neighborhood that have been worked over three times. There is no secret about the working over of mine dump culm, which has a certain amount of legitimate value, if sold for what it is.

Sacco Hunger Strike Rivals Other Famous Cases

Dr. Agostino Levonzin of Malta, aged forty, fasted for thirty-three days in the Carnegie Institute Nutrition Laboratory in Roxbury, in April, 1912, establishing a local record.

Dr. Henry S. Tanner underwent a fast of forty days as a medical test under the supervision of a medical college in New York in 1888.

Guillaume Grande died in the prison in Toulouse, France, in 1831 after fasting sixty three days.

SCHAEFER GETS BIG LEAD ON CHAMPION

New York, March 13.—Jake Schaefer defeated Champion Willie Hoppe, 500 points to 277 in the first block of their 1,500 point match for the world 18.2 balkline billiard title.

Jake Schaefer

The challenger took the lead [illegible] first inning, and with two [illegible] one of [illegible] the second [illegible] one of 139 in the fifth inning, obtained a lead the champion could not overcome.

Hoppe was erratic. He made many brilliant shots.

Schaefer's mastery of direction and speed made his runs appear easy. He was [illegible] formations several times [illegible] after cunning driving managed to gather.

Neither player engaged in close game, and comparatively few counts were made [illegible] territory.

The summary:

High runs—Schaeffer, 100, 139; Hoppe, 94, 44. Average, Schaeffer, 41 8-12; Hoppe, 23 1-12.

Schaeffer's second turn at the table netted him 100 points. The first 18 billiards were all cushion shots, the 18th being five rails.

HARVARD CREWS ROW IN THE HARBOR

Despite the fact that there is ice [illegible] on the Charles River, the Harvard varsity rowing squad [illegible] had their spin on the water. The Crimson oarsmen got in [illegible] the harbor from the Shawmut Boat Club, South Boston.

Membership on the varsity eight that was defeated by Yale down at New London last June means nothing to Frank Muller, the new Harvard mentor. Although seven of the oarsmen who swept down the Thames in the wake of the sons of old Eli are in college, only three are in the first boat.

Brown, Henry and Webb Make the First Crew

[illegible] Stan Brown, Barclie Henry and Nat Webb are the only members of last year's varsity boat who have been able to make the varsity with Muller.

Of the other four two are on the second eight and two are on the fourth. Charlie Hubbard, the football captain-elect, and Dan Holder, are in the second, and Standish Bradford and Bob Storey are in the fourth eight.

Who Have Seats in the Varsity Eight

The new Harvard varsity eight consists of the three veterans, Brown, Henry and Webb, Captain Ladd and Fuller of last year's second eight, Captain Benjamin Franklin Rice-Bassett of the freshman eight, Morgan and G. R. Johnson.

For the past month the candidates went through their paces on the rowing machines and in the tank at the Marshall Newell boathouse. Work in the tank while the men used oars with holes in them has enabled Muller to get a good line and resulted in two cuts.

Jack Conway Picks Abe Friedman to Beat Mack

W 35 | L 7

How would you like to be a dopester?

Just when Jack Conway had got the old low down on K. O. Joe O'Donnell and Abe Friedman, the knock 'em dead kid got injured and Young Mack was pushed forward as a pinch hitter.

"Mack has beaten Carl Tremaine, which means he's the goods," says Conway. "But we're going to string along with Friedman. Abe is in perfect physical condition which means it will take a champion to defeat him.

FRIEDMAN TACKLES MACK

Triple A Is Forced to Put in Substitute for K. O. O'Donnell

By JACK CONWAY.

Young Mack, who has punched his day out front in the bantam weight parade, will be the young man who will oppose Abe Friedman, New England champion, in the feature ten round whirl at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Mack will do a pinch hit stunt for K. O. Joe O'Donnell, who has been obliged to stagger to the sidelines as a result of a gash opened over one of his eyes while training.

The grand old dope indicates that Mack should star in the role once made famous by Olaf Henriksen.

We'll get a close up of this two fisted fighting man tonight. He's had his baptism of fire and didn't get his reputation singed. So he'll bear watching.

Youth, courage and brains, when supported by ability, can accomplish great things in the ring.

Tell us how [illegible] Abe Friedman has trained [illegible] near stating [illegible] will [illegible] show.

And Abe will be right tonight. For two weeks he has attended to his training as carefully as a miser watches his gold. He will have all of his amazing speed and science when the bell sounds for the opening of the first round. He will need these assets, as Mack can fight.

* * *

Henry Ford of the North End and Young Ketchel of New Bedford will mingle in the semi-final of [illegible] rounds. This should be an interesting tussle.

There will also be a couple of eights. Benny Nelson of Lowell will clash with Pat Kelly of South Boston, while Jimmy Smith of Brockton will oppose Spike Hennessey of Waltham.

COMB HAIR—AND IT STAYS

Millions Keep Hair Combed, Glossy, Well-Groomed—Few Cents Buys Jar any Drugstore—Not Sticky, Smelly

Even obstinate, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.

MITCHELL'S MEN READY FOR OPENING GAME WITH DODGERS

BRAVES TO PLAY FIRST GAME ON THURSDAY

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13.—The battle for the shortstop berth on the Braves will prove one of the bitterest and most interesting struggles of this promising baseball Spring.

That was evident when the boys all gathered for the first general workout.

By the time the sun had made the chronic dive into the Gulf a whole lot of athletes knew they had been doing something besides admiring the scenery.

Manager Mitchell chased the boys through two long workouts. He must get a team banged into shape to play a game with the Dodgers at Clearwater Thursday, and that required strenuous measures. So he's using 'em.

The customary sun burned down viciously and a young hurricane [illegible] sand and baseballs [illegible] It was one hot and windy day. Almost four hours of hard work in the same [illegible] out of a lot of [illegible] and [illegible] up for a spell of suffering from lameness and sunburn.

Cousineau

Nobody seemed to kick though, which is unusual, even on the first day out. But, as we have noted previously, the boys are out trying this time and that makes a whole lot of difference.

Attention Was Centered on the Shortstops

Attention for the [illegible] was centered on the [illegible] aspire to [illegible] of them [illegible] had been [illegible] morning [illegible] Everything [illegible] always [illegible] the minors [illegible] the collegiate board of [illegible]

Jocko Won Unanimous Plaudits With His Play

But Jocko won unanimous plaudits. He made an immediate impression by the way he handled ground balls. His pep and seeming tirelessness impressed the impression, so to speak, and when he showed a really good batting swing against some real pitching, he was generally admitted to be a mighty fine prospect.

His first day in the big leagues was an immense success, and though he was sore when it was over, he was happy.

The [illegible] ago [illegible] likely to [illegible] up.

No veteran watches a youngster come up without trying to fight him off. The invasion of the kids may snap Larry [illegible] those great years such as he enjoyed when helping the Reds win a pennant.

Then There Are Smith and Padgett of South

Then there are Robert Smith from New Orleans and Ernest Padgett from Memphis, two mighty fine performers, if [illegible] around 300 in the [illegible] Southern Association [illegible] Padgett [illegible] the Sally league [illegible] So they have [illegible] And they seem to be very much there in the field.

Boston and St. Paul Hockey Clubs in Opening Game

St. Paul, March 13.—The Boston and St. Paul hockey teams, champions of the Eastern and Western divisions of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, respectively, will meet tonight in the first of a four-game series for the hockey championship of the United States.

The winner probably will play the champions of Canada for the international title.

PAUL DOYLE GOES UNDER KNIFE

EVANS NOW AFTER NEW GOLF TITLE

Chicago, Ill., March 13.—Chick Evans has decided to defend his western golf title this year at the Mayfield Country Club, Cleveland. He had previously intended never again to compete in the event. A desire to tie the record of John Ball, of England, and George S. Lyon of Canada, each of whom has won a big amateur title eight times, changed his mind. Evans has won the Western title six times.

YOUNG FITZSIMMONS DEFEATS McKENNA

New York, March 13.—Showing flashes of the form that made his father one of the greatest [illegible] of all time, "Young Bob" Fitzsimmons of Newark, N. J., decisively outfought Charley McKenna of New York, in the 12-round semi-final to the Firpo-Brennan bout. Fitzsimmons weighed 165 and McKenna 174.

B. C. HIGH TRACK TEAM IS A WINNER

The Boston College High track team defeated Commerce in their two-day dual meet held at the East Armory and at the Commerce Gym. Boston College took the lead in the field events and held to the score of 58½ to 50½.

Captain Rumpf starred in the meet and took both the hurdles and the broad jump. Levine of Commerce took the intermediate dash while Cadrain of B. C. H. stepped ahead and took the senior dash.

Kelley of B. C. H. won the 300 from a fast field and was clocked in 37s. Daley and Chisom, the two Maroon and Gold fliers, won the 600 and 220 respectively. B. C. H. scored eight first places and Commerce three.

KID WILLIAMS TOO GOOD FOR SANDOW

Williams had the advantage in five rounds, Sandow in four and three were even. Williams weighed 12? pounds and Sandow two pounds heavier.

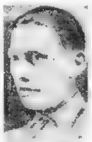
QUAKER CITY RING MEN TO BATTLE

Thursday evening the Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will have [illegible] amateur boxing field to itself when [illegible] stages an [illegible] tournament between a team composed of the cream of amateurs representing [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] of the [illegible] around Greater Boston [illegible] following classes [illegible]



Clarke Tootle

Harry J. Mc[illegible] chairman of Boxing Committee, Middle Atlantic Association of the A. A. U., [illegible] over the following boys to represent the Quaker City [illegible] classes: Dave Pettit and Clarke Tootle [illegible] Jimmy Fusco and [illegible] the 147-pound class and Sam Lucas and Adolph Perotti [illegible] the 160-pound class. Dave [illegible] the lightweight champion of the Middle Atlantic States [illegible] member of the championship [illegible] team of Philadelphia and won the Quaker [illegible] in November.

Clarke Tootle, the other representative [illegible] class, is a clever boxer with a hard [illegible] right and has [illegible] 90 per cent of [illegible] within the roped arena. Sam Lucas in the 160-pound class is rated as the cream of them [illegible] with a terrific punch and [illegible] an excellent boxer, he has stopped every man who has opposed him.

Against these boys the committee has picked the following Greater Boston boys to uphold the [illegible] of this section: George Kor[illegible] the Greek Iron Man of [illegible] and B. [illegible] of [illegible] pound class. Red Me[illegible] [illegible] George Aker of [illegible] [illegible] of Revere [illegible] Brockton will take his place.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13.—Northern builders could get a lot of tips from the birds who swing the hammers and wave the trowels in this booming spot. Throwing up a palatial mansion is mere child's play. You buy a lot of land in the morning, tell carpenter you want house, then depart. Come back along about sunset, and the boys have the house there and are just finishing up the garage.

Mortgages [illegible] and [illegible] enough to [illegible] up [illegible] stories. Mortgages [illegible] that's another story [illegible] are built [illegible] foundations but a lot of the pretty [illegible] at that [illegible] was given permit to [illegible] business [illegible] provided [illegible] would be continuous [illegible] thought that would stop him, but they guessed wrong. The old boy had enough jack to get a twelve story frame attached to the sky line. Then the checks ran out. But wise old guy hired one bricklayer and kept him working. It's quite a job for one gink to manufacture a big business block. This particular chap has not made any noticeable impression in two years, but he's working all the time. And pretty soon the spot will be worth enough to hold a dozen edifices. Values are higher, and getting higher and higher. The boys all talk as if dollars were marks, but when you come to figure it out the tourists are the marks. And they're worth a whole lot, until the natives get the range.

For Unruly Hair

Millions now use Stacomb

There was a time when men with unruly hair could not correct this fault to an otherwise well dressed appearance.

Now they overcome it with Stacomb, made for fractious hair.

They simply apply it in the morning and the hair stays neatly combed all day—in keeping with the neatness of their clothes and shoes.

So great is the need for aid like this and so effective is Stacomb that it is the fastest selling product ever made for the hair.

The Natural Way

Dotty Dill's Diary

By La Monte Waldron.

JANUARY, 31—Well dairy this is Satday nite an as such it is welcome as the floure of Spring. Chet an me spent a quite evenin dodgin autos and lokin in the store winders over on the avenoo. Somehow dairy I didnt seam to be my merry self tonite kinda mournful in a way. I tol Chet I was inklined by spels to be romantik an I wouldnt mind if he played the Rowmeo an Jewliet stuff an came up the fier scape in the moonlite to pling the ukelaleie at me.

Chet tol me to fergit it an did I wanta git him run inte the hoop by some cop seein him on the fier scape. Thus does our fondest dreeps fade away dairy. I sighed but I dont think Chet notised it. He didnt no it but I jest could of hugged him. But it dont do to git mushy an let these here men no your real feelins.

I dont no wat got into me tonite but I goes after Chet for burnin his dough like he does. I tol him be oughta save up for a rainy day an such. He seamed to git peeved an he comes back at me with Whatya mean save; an I cant save nothin an where do ya git that stuff? Chet says I gotta have a good time for my money dont I as I gotta have this an at. I tol him I getcha an tok up a more chearful topik.

I tol him how I met Millie as how she's comin to call on me an I wants him to meet up with her. Chet didnt seam much tickled. He says to leeve these strange dames alone, an me an hims enuff to have good times together. I tol him wat a winner she was an so reefined an quite an such a swell map. Yes he says an shees so reefined an quite she'll be a crape hanger on our juzzy evenins. But he finely gives in an says he mighta well meet her to please me.

Dairy I begin to feal at sooner or leter I'll be abel to twist Chet round my finger big as he is an it makes me hapy. Hes the biggest finest bird in our fair city an Im glad he got loose from at vamp an is mine.

Thank hevin there aint more work tomorrer. Larm clock I deefy you!

TOMLINSON'S CODE

A Story Full of Humor in a Telegram Sent by a Business Man to His Wife While on a Trip to New York

STRANGE, isn't it, that the names of similar things begin with the same letter? For instance, hearts, happiness, health, heaven and—well, let's say he[illegible]

It's also curious how many identical thoughts mill around in different heads. No matter how many Helens, Harriets, Henriettas—just to continue the alliteration—Hildas, Hopes—ah, that's the key.

When one mere man a-dreaming in a drift of smoke upon a sea whose lighthouses are lovely eyes—eyes of brown and blue and black gray and, maybe, even green—sets out to think, what thoughts are his? Can there be any thoughts save those that swing the gamut of the ones among whom his heart would choose?

But while he is thinking, isn't it just possible that all, but surely ONE is thinking just as hard as he? Of what is she thinking—that maybe some day he will ask her to be his wife? Or she is thinking: "I wonder if he really would make a good husband?"

Who can tell? But one thing is sure—the one who loves the best is thinking hardest. She is the real thinker!—PEGGY PRENTICE.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Anne Drove Out With Lyons on Their Secret Expedition, Picking Up Lacy in a Side Street, but They Were Held Up by a Breaking Axle

By Ann Lisle

[illegible] SAID RALPH LACY.

"PERHAPS not," said Ralph Lacy [illegible] "Ah—a [illegible] The [illegible] Jerry. We eat."

And in the mock heroic manner he'd managed to bring with him a phrase or two, we fell upon our supper. Jerry waited on us with awkward pleasure in serving. And I realized that again Mr. Lacy's thoughtfulness had provided a chaperon. Just at seven, Jerry proudly escorted Lyons into the office, and he in turn took me down to the [illegible]

"Mr. Lacy's a bit of all right if I make so bold to tell you how I'm feeling about it," he said as we hurried through dark passageways and to the freight elevator. "Him and me done a little sleuthing, madam, and never have I met a man more a man to my way of thinking. We'll see you through whatever comes tonight, though I ain't looking for anything out of the way at all."

Counting on Both

"I'm counting on you both," I assured him, and then the elevator arriving we chatted of Ben—that and her enjoyment of her place with Carlotta Sturges.

With a happy certainty that we'd disarmed suspicion, we got into the car and Lyons drove off. For a moment I was startled by this abrupt departure without Ralph Lacy, and then I realized the wisdom of picking him up in some other neighborhood. We made a wide detour and stopped at last on a dark street. Our stop was so brief that it seemed as if we'd no more than slowed up for a moment. But that moment sufficed for Ralph Lacy to jump into the car with me.

We drove quickly and with many turns, some of which seemed to be doubling on our tracks. At last we made our way out of the labyrinth of city streets and o[illegible] into the calm of the river road. On and on we drove, for the most part in the silence in which good friends can indulge.

We had been driving for the better part of an hour when the car slowed down and stopped. Lyons got out of the driver's seat and made a brief examination. Then he came to the door and sorrowfully reported that one of the rear wheel axles had snapped. Of course it was unrepairable. There was nothing to do but hurry back to the last service station we'd passed, and get a car to bring out another part.

"He'll find no car he can get and no one to be giving us a lift. Still and all I'm thinking it's best for our plan that 'tis on such a lonely road we're stalled. For now no one will find us."

"But we can't get help here," I objected.

"I'll get either an axle or another car inside of an hour, and we'll still be arriving where we want to be by awhile after 9. 'Tis time enough, for the sleepier and the nearer bed such folks as we're seeking may be the easier 'tis to get what you want from them."

"You're right, I suppose," I said and maybe I quavered a bit as I added: "But this is such a lonely road"——

"Hush, 'tis himself coming back," admonished Lyons, and then he added, astonishingly and in an earnest undertone: "'Tis all right you are and all right this is—and most of all, ma'am, take it from one who knows 'em both ways. 'Tis all right, Mr. Lacy is. Indeed he's all of that."

Off Into the Dark

And without another word Lyons plunged off into the darkness, leaving me there by the roadside miles from anywhere with nothing to cheer me but Ralph Lacy's voice saying:

"Here am I to mount guard. Off with you, Lyons."

When Lyons was swallowed up in the darkness beyond the faint blur of far away lights at the crossroads, I had a sudden unworthy sinking sensation. As if he knew it and knew just what would be most likely to lift me out of it, Ralph Lacy exclaimed:

"If Mr. Harrison could see you now, he'd know there's nothing can daunt you when you're enlisted in his service."

"This isn't a very terrific thing to be doing for Jim," I laughed, finding my poise again in a moment, as I'm sure Mr. Lacy had counted on my doing. "After all I'm sitting in a comfortable limousine guarded by two devoted friends, who act as if a drive along the clean, fragrant river road called for superhuman strength and courage on my part."

"Brick enough, I hope, to invite you to come into my parlor pro tem and sit down," I replied lightly.

"There's no reason why you should be doing a regular round of guard duty, marching up and down that road as if you had to draw on some enemy before he gets a chance to shoot first."

ETIQUETTE POINTERS

By Ann Adams

DEAR MISS ADAMS.

Is it proper, when in the presence of another, to beg pardon and turn your head when you use your handkerchief?

Also, which is proper? "A" says it is not proper for a gentleman to shake hands with a lady with his gloves on. "B" says it is proper. Also does this apply to a lady or should she remove her glove before shaking hands? J. F.

THERE is no reason to ask pardon or to turn your head when you use your handkerchief.

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

But those have thorns and these have stings."

There is some drawback to every earthly thing; with the sweet something bitter is always mixed. The couplet is from "The Showre of Blossomes," by Robert Herrick.

"A cold bottle and a bird."

An expression that is of old lineage in English literature. It is found as "We meet with champagne and a chicken at last," in a poem called "The Lover," by Lady Mary Wortley Montagu (1690 1762).

TELL THESE AT DINNER

"Not me."

"Well, then, I'll tell you. If I was to say to you, 'Ere, Bill, give me that 'andspike,' that wouldn't be a horatorio. But if I was to say, 'Bill, Bill, Bill give, give, give me that, Bill, give me, give me that 'and, give me that 'and, 'andspike, spike, spike, Bill give me that, that 'and 'andspike, spike, spike, spike, spike Bill, givemethat'andspike,' why, that would be a horatorio."

A Scotsman and a Yorkshireman were passing an inn. Both were penniless. They stopped and looked with longing, and after a while the Yorkshireman went in. He ordered a small whiskey, and engaged in a long conversation with the barmaid. After ten minutes or so, he remarked, "Well, I must be going," and strolled to the door. "But you haven't paid," said the barmaid. "Oh, you forget," said the Yorkshireman; "I paid when I ordered." The girl accepted his explanation, and he went out and told the Scotsman. The latter went in, ordered a double whiskey, and talked to the barmaid for some time; then he said, "Well, I must be going." He took a few steps towards the door, and then turned round sharply. "I say, miss," he said, "what about my change."

METEOR DANGERS

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"If, as I have read, meteorites on reaching the earth are of the temperature of ice, how are most of them burned up in the atmosphere before reaching the ground, and what protects the earth from meteorites that are constantly falling upon it?"

YOU might have made your question more startling, while just as well founded, if you had asked: "What protects us from being killed by these missiles shooting down out of the sky?" The fact is that there are very few accounts—and none of these, perhaps, should be accepted as authentic record—of the killing, or wounding, of human beings by meteorites. Yet, the possibility of such an accident unquestionably exists, however minute the chance of its happening, but for one fortunate circumstance, that chance would be very greatly enlarged, and the mortuary columns of the newspapers might occasionally contain the line "killed by a meteor!"

The fortunate circumstance referred to is the fact that the vast majority of these strange bodies are very small, not bigger on the average, say some authorities, than a grain of sand. But minute as they are, they move through open space before striking the earth's atmosphere with an average velocity exceeding that of the earth in its orbit around the sun. Assuming that they move in parabolic tracks, their velocity when at the earth's distance from the sun should be about twenty-six miles per second! That is from fifty to sixty times as swift as a rifle bullet.

If a meteor only as big as a grain of sand and weighing only one-hundredth of an ounce could reach the ground without having its velocity destroyed by the resistance of the air, it would possess at the moment of striking a kinetic energy of nearly 200,000 foot-pounds. Since it has been estimated that anywhere between fifteen and thirty million small meteors shoot into the earth's atmosphere every twenty four hours, it is not difficult to imagine what might happen more frequently than would be comfortable if the earth had no protection against meteors.

The nature of the protection that it does have has already been indicated. The meteors, because of their small mass, are quickly dissipated into gas and dust by the terrific heat developed in their swift rush through the resisting medium. During great meteoric showers, when the sky has appeared as if filled with "snowflakes of fire," so thick were the falling meteors, not one has ever been known to one occasion of that kind a "meteorite" fell in Mexico and is now in a museum.

This brings us to another side of the subject. Meteorites are distinguished from ordinary meteors, or "shooting stars," because of their relatively great size and mass. Bodies of this kind weighing several hundred pounds have fallen upon the earth, and smaller ones weighing a few pounds, or a fraction of a single pound, are not very infrequent arrivals from space, a few hundred, perhaps a thousand or so, coming every year, with the whole surface of the earth to distribute themselves over. When traversing the atmosphere meteorites resemble fireballs, are followed often by luminous trains, and sometimes explode with great violence and thunderous noise, scattering their fragments over square miles of territory.

Ailing Children Get Well on Syrup Pepsin

HOSPITAL and doctor's records prove that 75 per cent of human illness has its origin in the intestinal canal, complicated with what is commonly called constipation. Realizing what that figure means, mothers should contrive methods of handling their children while they still control them that will prevent these future dangers. Teach children regularity of bowel movement, and be especially watchful of young girls. Insist on two passages a day until the age of 18, when one is usually sufficient. Give plenty of oranges and apples, plenty of butter because it lubricates the intestines, and encourage the drinking of water.

If you detect restlessness, belching, gas or wind on the stomach, sleeplessness, or lack of appetite, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which children never object to taking as they like the taste. By morning the youngster will be well again. Likewise if the nostrils are stuffed up or there is persistent sneezing, a dose of Syrup Pepsin will break up the fever and cold.

Mrs. Geo. N. Colson of Bernard, Me., keeps her family well in that way, and Mrs. Ida A. Burkett of Carroll, La., who has been using Syrup Pepsin for a dozen years, has raised her three children on it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The formula, however, is on every package. Druggists have sold it with satisfaction to their customers for over 30 years, and it is now the largest selling family laxative in the world. Buy a bottle today. Martinez resents the insult of the prince

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Great War is on. With him is his friend, Atilio Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces, to the amazement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delilie. She calls at the Villa Sirena and asks the Prince to finance her gambling system. He refuses, but grows interested in her, and later calls at her home where she tells him she has a son in the war. Michael tries to make love to her but she resists. He goes to the Casino and watches the Duchess win large sums.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,

Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown

ALICIA refused to listen to warnings. Her inspiration was not exhausted. There still remained great things for her to do; and when the time came for her to stop, she would be aware of it sooner than the rest.

Michael had been present at this struggle, which had been annoying to him. Every afternoon, when he entered the Casino, he called himself names, as though he were doing something cowardly. Why did he come to witness the acts of that mad woman? She did not seem to be aware of his presence. At first a look, a smile, and during the remaining hours she had eyes for nothing save the gambling and the croupiers. In spite of this, the Prince kept coming regularly.

Harbinger of Good Luck

To excuse himself, he recalled certain words which the Duchess had said. The day following her first famous winning she had arisen on seeing him enter the room and taken both his hands in hers to speak to him privately.

"You bring me good luck," she murmured in his ear. "I am sure that this is so. I have been winning since we have become friends. Come, come all the time. Let me see you every time I raise my eyes."

She raised them, however, very seldom. She had other, more urgent things to think of.

But Michael, to quiet his angry pride, told himself that he was there to keep his word. Besides, who knew but that she was telling the truth? The tendency to superstition common to all gamblers, the Casino's surroundings and even Alicia's luck itself, had finally influenced the credulity of the Prince.

"How ugly she looks!"

Yes, she was ugly, like all the women who gamble and seem to suffer, at an ever-increasing rate, the weight of years, crushing out their youth under the stress of emotion. Every loss meant another year, every winning meant a look of tenseness which spoiled the regularity of their features.

Michael took a certain joy in noting the wrinkles which fixed attention formed about her eyes. Her nose seemed to grow sharp, and two deep furrows drew the corners of her mouth, giving her an expression of premature old age. All the little feminine touches disappeared as the hours went by.

Her hat tilted to one side; locks of hair made an effort to escape, as though disarranged by currents of human electricity which darted among the roots. She looked ten years older.

But a second voice within gave forth a different opinion. "Yes, she is very ugly, but so interesting!" Surely when she arose from the table she would be once more the same Alicia as ever.

One afternoon, on entering the Casino, Michael had a sense of something extraordinary happening. People were talking together, asking news, all of them hurrying toward the same table.

A little further on Spadoni came forward to greet him.

"She would never listen to me. She acts on her whims. She doesn't follow any system. She is done for."

All the gamblers were talking as though they were lamenting somebody's death; but it was a question of hypocritical compunction; inwardly they felt a sense of envious triumph on seeing at an end that absurd run of luck which had embittered their evenings.

Misfortune Steps In.

Michael, thrusting his head between the shoulders of two onlookers, saw Alicia at the same time that she raised her eyes. Their glances met. She looked at him with dismay, as though lamenting making himself responsible for her misfortune. "Why did you abandon me?"

The Prince fled; it hurt him to see her with that humble look of rage, like that of a cornered sheep, bleating in pain and defending itself.

At nightfall he returned to the Casino. A few people were still talking about the Duchess, but in low tones, with sad gestures as though talking about a dying person. The crowd had thinned about the table. He saw Alicia in the same place. Valeria stood behind her chair, with a sad face, while Dona Clorinda bent over her friend talking in her ear. He guessed her words. She was pleading with her to come away. Next day she would have better luck. But she did not seem to hear and remained with her eyes fixed on the few five hundred and 1,000 franc chips, which were all that remained.

A Bit Frightened

Suddenly she lost her patience, and turning her head she said one word, nothing more, something very strong, but nothing without precedent in that intimate friendship which was broken off at least once every week. Dona Clorinda immediately retorted, looking daggers, and went away haughtily and disdainfully, while Valeria looked at the ceiling in despair.

Michel fled once more. He was frightened by the expression on Alicia's face and the nervous hostility in her voice, which he had not been able to hear, but which was easily guessed from the trembling of her lips. He wandered about the rooms for half an hour, listening at a distance to the words of those who were still talking about the Duchess.

One afternoon had been sufficient to sweep away all that she had won in many successful days. Her misfortune was as extraordinary as her good luck had been. She had not won a single bet.

Suddenly he felt the contact of a nervous hand on his shoulder. He turned his eyes. It was Alicia, but with an eager gesture and with an expression which was both bold and imploring.

"Have you any money?"

Her voice and the expression on her face was not unknown to Michael. Before the war, the Casino had been the scene of his most unexpected and dazzling conquests. Women who were very cold and treated him with visible antipathy, and women of well-known virtue whose very looks repelled an audacity, had approached him with an air of sudden decision, requesting a loan, and immediately asking pointblank at what hour the Prince might offer them a cup of tea at Villa Sirena. He thought of the Colonel, who considered gambling the worst of woman's enemies. It caused them to lose all sense of shame. In a few hours the standards built up during an entire lifetime were suddenly demolished. In order to go on gambling they offered of their own free will what they had never thought of granting.

The Prince replied, with surprise, at this sudden request. He carried very little money on his person. He was not a gambler. How much did she want?

"Twenty thousand francs."

She mentioned the figure in the same manner in which she might have said a hundred thousand or five thousand. It was the same to her at that moment. Besides, during the last few days she had lost all sense of values.

Michael replied with a laugh. Did she imagine, by any chance, that he came to the Casino with twenty thousand francs in his pocketbook, as though he were a money-lender or a pawn-broker?

"Ask for a loan," said the Duchess. "They will give you anything."

He went on laughing at this absurd proposition, but was won over immediately by the simplicity with which Alicia formulated her request.

"How about you? Why don't you ask for one?"

Oh, as for her! . . . In the midst of her proud triumph, she had forgotten to pay various debts contracted before her sudden burst of luck. At present it was useless to ask. It was a difficult moment for her; everyone considered her ruined, and incapable of recouping.

The Great Delusion.

"And they are mistaken, Michael; I feel the inspiration of luck. You shall see how I shall get on my feet again after a few days. It is my secret.

"Ask for twenty thousand from that little old man over there. He can't refuse you; you are Prince Lubimoff. If you like we will form a partnership; I shall share half my winnings with you."

Michael kept on smiling, while inwardly he was scandalized by this proposition. Imagine the things in which this woman was trying to involve him! He, asking for money from a money-lender in the Casino.

But, like certain invalids who do things most contrary to their will, no sooner did he leave Alicia with gestures of protest than his legs mechanically took him in the direction of the divan where the old man with the short beard and the badge of the Sacred Heart on his lapel was squatting, with his hat in one hand and a silk cap on his bald head.

"I need twenty thousand francs."

ROYAL ROMANCES

CATHERINE II. AND PRINCE PONIATOVSKI

By Barbara Bayne

Catherine II of Russia and Count Poniatovski

THE "Semaramis of the North," known equally for her greatness and her affaires de coeur, was born in Prussia in 1729 as Princess Sophia, daughter of the reigning Prince of Anhalt-Zerbst.

With the plebeian nickname of "Figgey" she was the pet of the Imperial Guards. At the tender age of fifteen she was summoned to the Russian court and betrothed to the grandson of Peter the Great, who later became Peter III.

With great ceremony Sophia was received into the Orthodox faith and Empress Elizabeth, as her sponsor, gave her the name of her mother—Catherine. Followed the betrothal ceremony and on August 21, 1745, occurred the loveless "political" marriage with the weak-minded Peter, who cared only for his dolls and buffoonery and common companions.

A disgusted spectator of the dissolute court, the young grand duchess steered her course among the pitfalls unharmed, gradually unfolding like an exquisite flower. Always under the surveillance of a duenna, she had turned to books for companionship. Her keen mind, developed by reading and reflection, began to exhibit those remarkable powers that eventually paved the way to the throne. High officials, realizing that Catherine was likely to become a powerful factor in the State, set to work to win her favor.

Her son, Paul, the result of the unpropitious union, was taken from her. She was lonely—unhappy—and loathed the drunken, dissolute Peter, who, jealous of her superior intelligence, continually affronted her finer sensibilities.

The arrival of Count Stanislaus Poniatovski synchronized with the unhappiest moments of her life. This Polish nobleman of twenty-three, of marvelous charm, who had been lionized in Paris and London, accompanied the British Minister Williams as aide to St. Petersburg.

The coarse, self-seeking Russian noblemen who composed the Court of Russia suffered by comparison with the cultured, chivalrous, polished man of the world. Like a visitant from another world, the gallant courtier won the heart of Catherine.

"And, thereupon," said he, "I forgot that there was a Siberia."

But indiscreet references to the Court of Dresden caused his expulsion from the court within a year. Events moved rapidly. Catherine, already a power to be reckoned with, brought him back in 1756 as Minister Plenipotentiary of the Polish Republic.

Peter, absorbed in his own amour, now tacitly consented to the open relationship between the lovers.

Then somebody uncovered a mare's nest. Empress Elizabeth's life was nearing its close and a plot to place young Paul on the throne with Catherine as Regent, was discovered. Catherine had no share in it, but she was involved, disgraced and threatened with divorce.

And again Poniatovski was banished. He became King of Poland in 1764, through the influence of Catherine II.

But time and circumstance rang many changes, and Catherine's lover, old and gray, passed the last years of his life in prison at St. Petersburg.

He died there in 1798, scorned by the woman whose soul he had awakened with a lover's kiss!

It is wonderful news for every constipation sufferer to know that Kellogg's Bran guarantees permanent relief if it is eaten regularly. Two tablespoonfuls each day; as much with each meal in chronic cases—taken consistently—will work health wonders, driving out toxic poisons, freeing affected organs and allowing nature to eliminate the wastes in its own way!

Think what this means to health when you know that constipation is responsible for a large majority of human ailments; that it is often the direct cause of Bright's and diabetes; that, in milder form, it is responsible for sick headaches, biliousness, nausea, sour breath, pimples, etc.

Get a package of Kellogg's Bran to-day and fight against constipation and what it leads to! Free your family from its ravages; free yourself from its grip! Within a week you will be surprised at the improvement.

Kellogg's Bran is not only a permanent relief from constipation, but it is a health food, containing mineral salts as well as other vital food elements that are a necessity to human life.

Eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal, or sprinkle it on or mix it with other hot or cold cereals because it is ready to eat. It is delicious cooked with hot cereals. And, you have missed much if you do not know the delights of bran muffins, bran raisin bread, bran griddle cakes, etc.

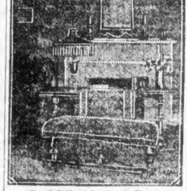
Leading hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran.

FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

WHERE the size of the room does not permit a davenport as a part of the fireplace grouping, a good substitute is found in the long bench placed beside the table.

With an easy chair placed at either side of the fireplace a table between them, and the bench on the side opposite the fireplace, the grouping becomes at once comfortable and yet sufficiently formal to give an air of dignity to the room.



Good Effect in Small Room.

The long table and the bench both reveal an Italian Empire effect. The bench is upholstered in cut velvet of a rich petunia shade, with fringe.

The color is repeated in the wing chair at the right of the mantel and in the shade of the lamp. The vase and brocade scarf are golden yellow, to furnish a bright bit of color. The rugs and walls are in neutral tones of tan and white, and the bright oriental rug adds a cheerful note to the white fireplace.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BE SURE TO READ THEM TO CHILDREN

By Blanche Silver

Peggy Comes to the Rescue.

"O DEAR! Oh, dear! Hand me something to hold on to," cried a tiny voice, and Peggy turned around and around to see who was calling for help.

"Here I am! Can't you help me? Just push that weed over so I can grab hold of it. Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Always the way with you selfish giant folks. Just because I'm not a giant you won't help me."

Just then Peggy caught sight of a struggling bug, holding tightly to a weed. At first Peggy couldn't make out just what the trouble was. Then she spied the second bug at its side. The struggling went on, and Peggy, forgetting everything, called for Happy Giggles.

"Don't let him hurt you, Happy Giggles—" she began, when the little elfin, hearing his name, came tumbling down to Peggy's side. "Oh, Happy Giggles, please help that poor little bug. That ugly brown bug is killing it! See how he has it—bent right straight back. He'll break its back if you don't make him stop. Quick! Quick!"

By this time the bug that had been calling for help had bent over backward and was trying to catch hold of the weed.

"Too late now," he called cheerily. "Hello there, Happy Giggles! If you had come a wee bit sooner you could have helped me, but that stupid miss—"

"She thought you two fellows were fighting!" exclaimed the elfin. "Some joke on you, Mr. Dragon-fly. I do declare that's a good one on you," and Happy Giggles laughed so heartily that Peggy and Mr. Dragon-fly joined in with him.

"So that's why you didn't come to help me?" he asked. "Well, now that is funny! Did we look as if we were fighting?"

"You certainly did," replied Peggy. "What's the matter with your friend? Is he dead?"

"Well, I've often heard you folks called wise," laughed Mr. Dragon-fly. "But that's the best I've ever heard. So you thought that fellow," pointing to the bug clinging to the weed, "and I were fighting?"

Peggy nodded her head and Happy Giggles and Mr. Dragon-fly both laughed again.

"Well I just guess he'd better not fight with me," he chuckled. "That was I—before I crawled out just now. You see, we dragon-flies live under water, in that bathing suit you might call it, until we get to a certain age. Then we long for the bright sunshine and fresh air above the water. When we come to that stage we just crawl upon a stem of a weed like the one on which you just saw me, and take a good deep breath. You see, when we come up out of the water our shell dries and when we breathe the outside air these dry skins crack and out we crawl!

"I was wishing for a weed to crawl onto. That's why I asked you to push that other weed nearer me, so I could catch hold of it. As it was, I nearly had to stand on my head to get out. But I'm here all right."

"Well, Now, That Is Funny!"

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Lucky if You Are CALM

THE influences of today can not be regarded as either very good or very adverse. It, therefore, will be conducive to your general well-being if you endeavor to maintain an atmosphere of calm and serenity.

One of the great dangers to be avoided at all times by Pisces subjects is the cavilling over trifles and the worrying over little details. You are very disposed to "strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel." There is nothing more infelicitous, nothing which causes more unpleasantness to those around you and to yourself, than the natural disposition on your part to overlook the big things of life, and to work yourself into a state of feverish anxiety over matters that do not amount to "a row of pins."

MRS. BUTLER'S TERRIBLE PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa. — "When I cleaned house last April I must have overlifted, for after that I had pains and aches all the time and was so discouraged I could hardly do my own housework, and I could not carry a basket of groceries from the store nor walk even four or five squares without getting terrible pains in my back and abdomen and lower limbs. I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My husband said that if it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting strong and stout."—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1233 S. Hanson St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

He has his faults, of course, even as you and I. But even as you and I, he also has something besides faults.

Many people may find it difficult to believe this, so much have they read and heard. I am talking about the American business man.

* * *

Having admitted that he has a normal share of the faults common to human nature, suppose for a change, instead of sniping at him, we try to think of some of the useful things he has done, things which have helped to make life more comfortable for all of us. Others may justly claim part of the glory, yet isn't what follows true?

* * *

Who have been mainly responsible for the rise of the United States to first rank among modern nations?

The American business man.

* * *

Who has done most to give this country its unequalled array of universities and colleges?

America's business men.

* * *

Who are the mainstay of our most energetic and important churches?

Our business men.

* * *

Who pay the larger share of the nation's grievously heavy taxation burdens?

The business men of the country.

* * *

To whom are our great agricultural population indebted for the harvesting and other machinery and implements which have made farming less arduous physically and more attractive financially?

Business men.

* * *

Whose enterprise and achievements have made it possible to pay in this country the highest wages and the highest salaries in the world?

America's business men.

* * *

Business men.

* * *

The unexampled strength and power we were able to wield in the World War—who contributed enormously to this?

Our business men.

* * *

Whose efforts made it possible for us to enjoy telegraphic means of communication, the telephone, the radio, the phonograph, the movies?

Business men.

* * *

To whom do we owe our abundant supply at low cost of books, periodicals, newspapers and other reading?

Our business men.

* * *

Whose achievements have made it feasible to cut down the common working day from twelve or fourteen hours of our forefathers to the eight hours or so of to-day, freely interspersed with holidays and vacations?

Business men's.

* * *

But never again make the mistake of imagining that the business man has nothing but faults and that he has done little or nothing for the advancement of the nation and the well being of you and me.

NEW HIGHS FOR DAY IN LATE TRADING

Sugars started a strong New York market higher, followed by oils and rails. New highs for the day were set in late trading. Money renewed at 5½ per cent.

Punta Alegre Sugar was at a high since 1920, up around 3 points. Manati and Cuba Cane preferred were at tops since 1921, up 1 to 3 points or better. American Sugar rose over a point and American Beet Sugar 3¼, at 47⅛.

Good judges of the sugar situation are still confident there will be a relative shortage this year. Reports of American Sugar Refining will indicate a decided turn for the better. Company's inventory position points to a large surplus in 1923 after all charges. It appears company has made its final charge-off in connection with heavy losses sustained as result of the failure of buyers to take sugar contracted for at high prices.

In the afternoon Market Street Railway dropped 3½, the prior preferred 4, the second preferred 8½, and the preferred 12 points.

Gulf States Steel, Kelly Springfield, General Asphalt, American Locomotive, National Enamelling and Beechnut sold 2 to 3 points above Monday's closing figures.

Eastern Steamship at Record Top in Boston

On the Boston Stock Exchange new record high price levels were attained by Eastern Steamship, which went from 122 to 125, and Hood Rubber from 62⅞ to 63½. These features, together with a 2⅜ point rise in Warren Brothers Common to 32¾ and fairly large investment absorption of American Telephone from 124⅞ to 125⅜ made the Boston market worth while.

Copper shares generally kept to a narrow groove, although Calumet & Hecla advanced three points to 395. Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway and its trust certificates added 2 points each. Island Creek Coal, Osceola, Ahmeek and International Cement added a point or better.

Boston Notes

FOLLOWING Kennecott Copper meeting, President Birch stated earnings in past quarter were at annual rate of between $5 and $6 a share.

THERE ARE those who set the limit of the present bull market about thirty days from date. It is hardly to be doubted that a number of the best stocks are around their tops or that others are due for spectacular upswings.

ARIZONA Commercial has about $300,000 in net current assets, owes no money and is talked of for dividend resumption.

PUNTA Alegre Sugar has sold twenty-eight per cent. of its expected crop. It had on hand March 1 cash and unsold sugar equal to about $4,000,000 more than floating debt.

ENDICOTT Johnson is making 130,000 pairs of shoes daily. International Shoe is making above 135,000 pairs daily. The two represent one-fifth of United States shoe output.

RAY Consolidated in 1922 averaged gross cost per net pound of copper produced 12.5 cents, so that its profits in present market are seen to have ample margin.

AMERICAN Woolen's business outlook continues very good, with likelihood that earnings will at least be nearly as good this year as last.

UNITED Shoe merger is not expected to alter company's present par of $25.

BIGELOW-Hartford Carpet is assured by present bookings of extensive business at its plants for months to come.

ISLAND Creek Coal is confidently expected to take extra dividend action at its nearing directors' meeting.

COPPER

The price of copper metal is steadily rising. An important move in the Copper stocks has started.

SURPLUS ELIMINATED

The entire surplus of Copper has been eliminated. No longer is there any artificial restriction on production.

20 CENT COPPER

But this tells only part of the story. The outlook for the Copper Industry is clearly reviewed in a 1,500-word analysis in this week's Market Letter, containing thorough reviews of the leading Copper Stocks.

EXPERTS FIND CONFESSION OF MURDER LIE

Mentality experts reported to Middlesex County authorities that Gordon Warren, twenty-six years old, who confessed to the murder of John K. Pierce of Waltham in 1915, is a "pathological liar."

"Warren has hallucinations; is a pathological liar," according to the report. He is in the habit of reading stories of crimes and criminals and taking on their personalities. Then he labors under delusions that he committed their crimes."

An examination of Charles La Bou of Waltham, implicated in Warren's "confession," resulted in this finding:

"He has a keen appreciation of events and is clever at parrying questions. He is not insane, but is mentally deficient."

Warren's confession was made while he was serving time at Deer Island for another offense. He said he wanted to make himself "right with God."

BERMUDA!

"Pearl of the Atlantic"

And as the Oriental pearl is sought in jewelry, so this beauty spot of the sea is sought by the Winter weary traveler.

Here every day is a June day, and every hour filled with the joy of living. Separated by only forty-eight hours from New England sleet, slush, mud and chilling blasts this English jewel-island offers YOU warm, brilliant sunshine, clear blue skies, a sapphire sea bordered with softest coral sand, and an ever-changing panorama of glorious beauty.

A Bermuda Vacation Is an Investment Paying Rich Dividends in Renewed Vitality and Increased Efficiency.

AND THE INVESTMENT NEED BE SO SMALL! AS LITTLE AS $75 WILL COVER A FIVE-DAYS' CRUISE —$100 FOR A WEEK—$140 FOR 15 DAYS—INCLUDING EVERY EXPENSE.

Ask us for complete information—sailing lists, etc., and let us take care of your reservations. All without expense or obligation of any kind.

Just telephone or write to our hotel and travel editor, Mrs. Marjorie L. George, or drop in at RUBBER TO PAY BRITISH WAR DEBT TO U. S.

London, March 13.—Great Britain's exports of raw rubber from her colonies are expected to pay a good share of the American debt, according to a statement by Winston Churchill.

"One of our principal means of paying our debt to America," he said, "is the Stevenson scheme for limiting export and artificially fixing the price of British grown raw rubber."

New York, March 13.—Americans felt the first pinch of British control of the rubber market when an advance of 10 per cent. on all tire and tube prices was announced today by the United States Rubber Company.

SACO-LOWELL'S OFFICERS CHANGE

At the annual meeting of the Saco-Lowell Shops the following changes in officers were made: R. P. Snelling, treasurer, becomes vice-president, succeeded by P. D. Howe, former assistant treasurer; F. J. Hale, general agent, becomes vice-president, and is succeeded by R. F. Herrick, Jr., former assistant agent. Messrs. Snelling and Hale, who have been actively associated in the business for forty years, will remain in the active management.

Jews Appreciate Education

A Good Thing for the Country

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Some young gentlemen of the University of Syracuse have expressed feeble objection to the presence of Jews in the university. They ought to welcome young men that have real eagerness for knowledge, combined with extraordinary ability in study.

Examination of men in the war showed that half of the population of the United States ranks intellectually below a normal child of thirteen years old. It won't do the country any harm to have a few citizens really anxious to GET an education and USE it.

If the Jews objected to college training or BELITTLED knowledge and its possession there might be some reason for criticism. But if their eagerness for knowledge, their high rank in classes, lifts the national average, be glad of it.

The Talmud says "Jerusalem was destroyed because the schools were neglected."

Well Worth Getting

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Officials of the Miners' Union, who know what it costs to produce coal, say that the owners of the anthracite mines are charging $3.01 per ton in excess of a fair profit. This means that from anthracite coal alone the graft, or, in plainer words, "robbery," is more than two hundred and fifty millions a year.

That is one profitable extortion job, carried out by an organization of mine owners that have the government back of them, and no organized public against them.

Millions of Americans have gone without coal, a few of them have been frozen, and the mine owners have taught the public that the wise thing is to "take what you can get and not complain."

There isn't any public in the world except the American public that would stand such treatment. There is no public except the American public left absolutely unprotected by its government against wholesale monopolistic extortion.

Judges Should Be Careful

Many in This State Think That They Ought to Be Selected by the People for Certain Terms

"Think of it, gentlemen—$29.50 for coal that won't burn, and you can't get a case by the judge."

This is an exclamation by Jacob Bitzer, representing the Attorney-General's office, to a legislative committee hearing on Governor Cox's bill to allow the State to confiscate "fireproof coal."

Mr. Bitzer made this exclamation after he had told the committee that a certain judge in this Commonwealth announced as his policy not to grant a warrant to any applicant unless that applicant for the warrant was able to show that the coal dealer was selling shale for more than half of his alleged coal.

Mr. Bitzer did not name the judge. He ought to name him. The people of this Commonwealth ought to know who he is. We ought to know who among our judges are undertaking to be our legislators and our Governors. We ought to know who among our judges is trying to be a law unto himself. We ought to take down the big head of that kind of a judge, and we ought to consider whether or not it would be well to start the impeachment process against him.

The judges of this State enjoy the distinction and the personal advantage of life tenure of office. As a counterpoise against that the impeachment machinery should be kept much better oiled in this State than it needs to be kept in the majority of States, because in the vast majority of States judges are ELECTED, and for only a TERM OF YEARS. In Massachusetts, life tenure is still on trial, and there are an increasing number of citizens who believe that Massachusetts should conform to the practice of the other States in the matter of selecting their judges and fixing their term of office.

Therefore, the judges ought to exercise a very strict control over themselves and we ought to maintain a very vigilant watch over their conduct.

New Veterans' Hospital

Senator David I. Walsh is pleased to announce that the new government hospital for tuberculosis cases at Rutland will be opened May 3. The United States Veterans' Bureau has told him so.

It is about time. There is not the slightest excuse for the delay that has taken place in this case. The hospital has been practically ready for occupancy for six months, but quibbling about the Federal source from which the funds shall come to pay the expenses of the personnel has kept it closed.

This case attests the cheap quality of brains and the cold conception of duty possessed by those who are in control of the hospitalization of suffering veterans. They could not agree on quarters for the staff and so the consumptives must languish nine months in contract hospitals. The staff and not the sick veterans are of first importance.

The editorial hammering of the Boston American is responsible for this arousing of Bureau officials to the carelessness and stupidity which has marked this Rutland affair. It gave Senator Walsh the true picture of conditions with which to enforce his demand for action.

Well Deserved Increases

We congratulate the legislative Committee on Public Service for the increase granted to District Attorney O'Brien in his office force and for the salary it grants them.

Mr. O'Brien very much needed this increase in his force to carry out the policies which he has in mind, and the community will very much benefit by the results.

The increase of salary to Michael A. Sullivan of the Finance Commission is also well deserved. If Mr. Sullivan is fulfilling the important duties of his office he merits this increase, for there are no more disagreeable duties to perform than that of chairman of the Finance Commission.

The increase of salary to William A. L. Bazley, State Commissioner of Conservation, is also a well deserved increase. He has a very important task.

We hope that the Legislature will approve the excellent judgment which the committee has exercised.

WINIFRED BLACK ON MOTHERS

By Winifred Black

SHE made quite a bit of trouble the other night—the woman who's always running to the door the minute the bell rings, no matter what time it is or how tired she is.

It was quite late, on a stormy night, and she heard some one outside calling.

And when the young people looked up and saw the windows open, and heard some one coming to the door, they laughed and drove away.

But the woman who ran so eagerly to the door was not satisfied.

She called up the police and asked them to see if they couldn't find out who it was that called under her window in the dark and the storm.

And everybody said that she was foolish and imaginative, and that she really must stop making such a time about nothing.

You see, her daughter has disappeared—the daughter she loves better than anything in the world, the pretty little daughter who's been the core of her heart ever since she was born—and somehow the mother can't get used to it.

Don't let her go out of your heart, mother, the little girl whose careless feet lead her sometimes into dark and cruel paths.

I hope the mother who thought she heard her daughter calling the other night will soon hear her calling in reality, and will answer in love and kindness, no matter where her little girl has been or what she has done.

Rubber Houses in England

LINCOLN, Eng., March 13.—The rubber house, which many residents of earthquake stricken districts have wished for, is now a possibility.

The lightest solid ever produced is soon to be manufactured here. The substance is a product of vulcanized rubber expanded by gas under pressure. It is three times more buoyant than cork and impervious to water and should make ideal building material.

Shopmen's Strike

Editor Boston American:

I find the editorials in your widely circulated paper regarding the coal shortage most appropriate. They proved beyond doubt that the shortage, with its terrible consequences, is due to the dilapidated condition of the railroads, brought about by the shopmen's strike. The coal shortage is not alone the trouble, but every manufacturing industry is suffering from want of raw material.

The most powerful freight engines bring passenger trains of seven or eight cars (light burden), as there are no passenger engines to do so, while thousands of tons of coal and foodstuffs lie ditched on rusty rails off the main lines. The only solution is a settlement with the striking shopmen, whom the companies are endeavoring to subdue, in order to defeat organized labor. Let the public picture what this means? In the near future the government will contribute millions of dollars to the railroad companies for their losses in their splendid achievement of defeating their shopmen.

The railroad companies made agreements which they cannot fulfill with their strikebreakers. They promised permanent jobs to those who proved efficient and capable. Why the existing conditions on the roads? Because 99 per cent. of these "capable and efficient" men had no ability nor training to perform this work. Experience is the crown of old men, and without these old men (the striking shopmen) the railroads cannot function. Up to the present the striking shopmen have been loyal to the sworn rituals of their union except in special cases of men old in the service. These are worse than the professional strikebreakers, because they served as grievance committees and were the chosen representatives of the shop crafts. These men were used as bait to lure the strikers back to work. The bait proved insufficient because the men refused to accept any terms except their own, viz.: Seniority and pension rights.

Hindu Won't Eat With Wife

INDIA always has been a country of social complications as well as political confusion. The caste system, which has developed to an almost incomprehensible state of intricacy, is responsible for this condition.

Originally there were but four castes. There were the priests—or Brahmins—the warriors, the husbandmen and the slaves.

No one of these four divisions could take part in the activities of the other. This was thousands of years ago.

Since that time and from those four classes has developed a system of social distinction which cannot be imagined unless one goes there and lives among the Hindus themselves.

To the traveler in this country of castes and curious customs it is amazing to find that a Hindu lady does not eat with her husband—not even in the same room.

She isn't permitted to prepare his meals or touch the food he tastes. For to do so "would render it unfit for use."

INFLUENZA CARRIES A DEADLY STINGER ON BOTH ENDS

By Herbert Kaufman

NEW YORK reports nearly five hundred cases of sleeping sickness in a week. Take care. Spanish flu carries a deadly stinger at both ends.

A new phase of an old disease. Some doctors still call it brain fever. Infantile paralysis is a more familiar form of the same horror.

Physicians were unable to find a remedy then and the vagueness of news concerning a serum at the Mayo Laboratories suggests that we shouldn't be too hopeful of a cure yet.

Pernicious anaemia likewise eludes a remedy. We know what it does, but not quite what it is. Johns Hopkins experts investigating a recent case stumble on a new blood group. The secret may be lurking there—and several others, besides.

A Long Trail of Controversy

Science travels long roads. All knowledge develops link by link. The chain of progress reaches into the mists of time.

The Turks experimented with vaccination years before Jenner thought of it. A British Ambassador's wife, who submitted her child to direct innoculation when in Constantinople, is really responsible for the conquest of smallpox.

The American Telephone Company celebrates Bell's discovery with a billion-dollar corporation. Some European encyclopedias still credit the invention of Elisha Gray.

The trail to yesterday is littered with uncertainty and controversies. We have very little absolute knowledge.

She Paints a Strange Picture of Lafayette

The Du Pin memoirs paint a very unorthodox portrait of Lafayette. Madam La Marquise, after hearing the story of the republic's beginning from Alexander Hamilton, regrets that France should gain such an insipid picture of those stirring events from the "dull memoirs of that imbecile."

The lady breaks another idol by accusing Robert Morris, the beloved banker of the revolution, of accepting her funds through Talleyrand the very day before announcing the failure of his institution.

Archaeology and personal reminiscence keep history in a constant funk. The last word on any man or malady or period is manifestly still unsaid.

"You Pays Your Money and Takes Your Choice"

It is even difficult to estimate the verity of current opinion. A Richmond banker, studying Far East affairs, predicts from Athens that the stage is set for further bloody drama in that stormy petrel roost and warns us to prepare accordingly.

Simultaneously, Sir Horace Humboldt, High Commissioner to Turkey, informs the British Foreign Office that prospects for peace were never brighter in the Orient.

One military authority asserts that nations are about to abandon the use of mustard and phosgene. Sneeze gas is much more effective and merciful. One good whiff at that synthetic influenza is sufficient to anesthetize an entire army.

Whereupon an equally prominent authority proclaims that civilization is doomed by the next war. According to his notion, coming battles will be decided by poison so incredibly virulent that not a soldier will leave the field of battle.

In the words of a distinguished showman, "you pays your money and you takes your choice."

Mr. Bedford Does Not Discuss Profits

A billion dollars loss in gasoline is estimated for 1923. All due to the carelessness of the public. Nobody is offering advance information on what the public may expect to pay for motor fuel this year.

Mr. Bedford, chairman of one Standard Oil Company, informs the country instead that our petroleum industry expanded 1,500 per cent. since 1906, an increase partly credited to government non-interference.

He contrasts this happy estate with the condition of the railroads, compelled to operate under more or less Federal direction during an identical period.

Mr. Bedford, however, offers no explanation for 800 per cent. profits. Perhaps he will later reconcile those giant earnings with prevalent gas prices, the responsibility for which can't be laid to careless motorists—it's more likely due to careless voters.

Some Perfectly Obvious Things

Mining engineers caught with empty canteens on a desert off the Gulf of California distilled sea water in tin cans and won through. The head is full of relief expeditions.

Dr. Pearl, also at Johns Hopkins, finds that most folk die from derangements of the alimentary tract, heart troubles and pulmonary infections. Nothing new to Methuselah.

Still such knowledge hasn't taught a hundred generations to watch diet, control passions or avoid exposure. When we properly protect ourselves in these respects more than thirty persons in a million will be centenarians.

Slum babies are found to be healthier than Vanity Fair's. Perfectly credible. Tenement dwellers nurse their children and personally care for them. There are still no substitutes for devoted mothers.

Fire Chief Kenlon, returning from abroad, is assured that the best way to handle Manhattan's garbage is to burn it, run an electric light plant with the resultant energy and fill Jamaica Bay with the ashes.

Father Knickerbocker's Market Basket

His proposition looks especially feasible when one reads the agricultural department's statement that Father Knickerbocker buys a billion pounds of butter, cheese and poultry, eats a billion pounds of meat, drinks a billion and a half quarts of milk and consumes corresponding quantities of fruit, bread, vegetables and fish every year.

Considering which figures, New York should be far more concerned over the difficulties of farmers and ranchmen. All America is interdependable. Sectionalism cannot serve national welfare. We prosper uniformly or not at all.

Texas led the way with a billion-dollar output. The South produced 40 per cent. of the total. The country is coming along!
